Students' original paintings to be auctioned off at Turkey Trot

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

The Antioch Lower Grade School doesn't have an official art program, but that doesn't mean students aren't learning about—and creating—art.

Parent volunteers of the PTO have put together an art program that is discipline-based and covers aesthetics, art criticism, art history, and learning to use the tools and techniques of the masters.

Thirty-six lucky bidders at the PTO's fund-raising Turkey Trot, being held at Maravela's in Fox Lake on Nov. 18, will take home masterpieces created by each of the kindergarten through third-grade classes in the style of Jackson Pollock, who the students have been studying for the last month.

Volunteer Carole Eaton has created the art program for the school and is helped by a team of PTO members including Denise Dycus, Christie Lubicz, Rhonda Holtquist, Candace Vincent, Jackie Mmak and Kathy Peters.

During the first week of study, a book was read to the students about Pollock and how he used abstract expressionism to show movement, energy and rhythm. The second week students practiced using the artist's techniques on a smaller scale. Weeks three and four were spent creating the artworks to be auctioned using real artists' canvases and acrylic house paint.

Principal Mary Grom said, "It's wonderful that the children are able to learn and remember through doing. They learned about how Jackson Pollock used abstract means to make his messages, and why he wanted to create the art based on the social issues in his environment. Our students created their works based on things that are relevant to them such as other subjects they are studying."

All of the paintings are titled and signed on the back by the students of the class that created the painting. Some of themes of the painting

Walgreen's theft leads to accident; charges pending

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Charges are pending against two Chicago residents who shoplifted nearly $2,000 of merchandise from the Antioch Walgreen's and caused an accident injuring themselves and two others at the intersection of Rte. 173 and Deep Lake Rd. as they fled the scene.

Lt. Ronald Roth of the Antioch Police Dept. said, "At 7:41 p.m. (Nov. 12) we received a report that there was a theft in progress at the Walgreen's. By the time our officer got there, the suspects had left the store. The officer, who was on foot, saw a Blazer with the suspects in it. He told them to stop, and they sped out of the parking lot. He radioed in a description of the vehicle and the license plate number."

Roth clarified that police were not involved in a chase with the Blazer, as had been reported by one of the Chicago television stations. "Our officers were checking the downtown area for the Blazer when we got the call of an accident at the intersection of Rte. 173 and Deep Lake Rd. It was when we got to the accident scene that we realized the vehicle that caused the accident was the same one described at Walgreen's," he said.

James Coleman, 39, and his passenger Janice Johnson, 28, are suspected of shoplifting $1,950 worth of merchandise, including a self-blood-testing machine from the Walgreen's. The merchandise was recovered from the Blazer at the accident scene.

According to Roth, the Blazer was traveling at a high rate of speed when it disobeyed the signal at that intersection and struck the van. The van was being driven by Ernest Franks, 56, of Antioch, who was traveling with his 12-year-old granddaughter. Both Franks and his granddaughter are in stable condition.

Roth said charges have not been filed against Coleman or Johnson. Both are hospitalized in stable condition. "It's a little complicated because one of them is in Milwaukee," said Roth. "Charges have not been filed yet, but they will be."

P&Z board sends Heron Harbor proposal to village for approval

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Final plat of subdivision for townhouses in one of the units of Heron Harbor will go before the board of directors of the Village of Antioch for approval.

The board members of the combined planning and zoning board approved the positive recommendation made by director Bob Silhan for the townhouses after discussion of road improvements and water detention were satisfied.

The planned unit development (PUD) calls for 85 townhouses built with four units per building, with the exception of one building which will have five units. Sixteen of the units will back onto Lake Marie.

Board member Nancy Binder asked whether road improvements would be made to Bowles Rd. before beginning to build the townhouses so that other residents in the area won't be disrupted during construction. The plan put forth by KLM

Village to remove illegal signs

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

The look of Antioch roadways will be less cluttered as the village has taken action to see that illegal freestanding signs placed in public right of ways along state highways will be removed.

Village attorney Ken Clark contacted the Illinois Dept. of Transportation (IDOT) to see if the department could either have the signs removed or give the village authority to do so.

"It really isn't practical with all the other work they have to do for IDOT employees to come and remove these signs," Clark said.

According to Clark, signs are allowed on private property, but even then there are restrictions, such as they must be no closer than 150 feet to each other.

Seventeen letters were sent to those individuals and businesses named on the illegal signs notifying them that their signs are not legally placed and must be removed.

Village trustee Dorothy Larson asked village administrator Tim Wells when the village will start confiscating the signs. Wells answered that the offenders will be given a couple of weeks to remove the signs before the village does it for them.

Lions Club prepares holiday baskets

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

The Antioch Lions Club is preparing 55 Thanksgiving baskets to be distributed to needy families on Nov. 18 from the Antioch Rescue Squad.

"We have a list of families in need that have been contacted," project chairman Richard Kufalk said. "Our big concern is single parents with kids. We like to make sure the kids are well cared for."

According to Kufalk, full-size laundry baskets will be filled with a turkey plus all the trimmings—oranges, apples, yams, eggs and rolls. "The Lions have been putting together these baskets for at least 25 years," said Kufalk. "We pay for everything out of our fund-raising efforts like the chicken barbecue."

The baskets are put together by Lions members. Kufalk said, "Co-chairman Dennis Volling, Bruce Ahlquist, Tom Haley, John Ruffin, Taso Maravelas, and some others I know I'm forgetting to mention have been very helpful."

The club will also put together and distribute similar baskets at Christmas.

Antioch mourns loss of prominent resident

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Antioch mourns the loss of one its prominent residents John L. Steitz Jr. who died on Nov. 2.

Though born in Chicago on Sept. 4, 1939, Steitz was a resident of Antioch nearly all of his life. He graduated from Antioch Community High School in 1957, and went on to study at Wright Jr. College, Bradley University and the University of Chicago.

With his family, he owned and operated Steitz's Resort on Grass Lake Rd. that was started by his parents the late John and Elsie (Czarnecki) Steitz. He also worked at Darwin Realty in Elmhurst.

Steitz contributed to the community through his efforts on the board of education of Grass Lake School Dist. 36 from 1969-1987, and as an active participant in the Lakes Region Historical Society.

Grass Lake School social studies teacher Caroline Adams said, "John had a wonderful sense of humor, even all of the children knew that. He loved this school, and always had its best interest at heart."

Adams continued, "He grew up in this area, and I'm sure he went to this school. He very ably served on our school board for about 20 years."

One of Steitz's special interest was photography, and he made significant contributions to "Antioch Illinois, a Pictorial History, 1892-1992."

Lakes Region Historical Society president Bob Lindblad said, "He did a lot of work on the book, particularly with the layout of the pictures. He had some of the pictures at the resort on Grass Lake Rd."

On the photo acknowledgement page in the front of the book it reads, "We are also deeply indebted to John L. Steitz Jr. for his unselfish donation of time and his outstanding photographic talents."

Steitz is survived by his wife Janice (Duha) Steitz, his son John and daughter-in-law Tonya, and his son Jeffrey.

Creative kids

Lindenhurst mom brings thrill of theater to Antioch students

By BRENDA BALIN-BEITSCHER
Staff Reporter

"Be your characters!" the director playfully admonished the acting troupe. "Who are you?" she asked a slender young girl.

"I'm Stingy!" the girl replied. A short while later, it became clear that 8-year-old Bridget Hebbard was, indeed, an elf named Stingy.

The group of third-graders, who were rehearsing a play called "How Santa Got His Christmas Tree," are members of Cathy's Creative Kids Club, an after-school acting club that meets in three Antioch Dist. 34 schools.

The club started up the first week of September. Each of the three school groups meets one afternoon a week for about an hour. Students in the fourth and fifth grades at W.C. Petty rehearse at Antioch Upper Grade School. Third-graders at Antioch Lower Grade School and Oakland Elementary School rehearse in their own schools.

"I've been involved in drama my whole life," said Cathy Leafblad, the "Cathy" of Cathy's Creative Kids Club. "When my daughter was 9, she tried out for a role in 'Willy Wonka's Chocolate Factory' with the Waukegan Community Players. The next year, my son and I joined her, and all three of us were in 'The Emperor's New Clothes.'"

Leafblad observed how things were done at the Waukegan theater group. She asked the board of directors of the acting troupe to allow her to direct a play called "The Best Christmas Pageant Ever."

Leafblad and a friend had directed the play for two consecutive years, on a voluntary basis, when a neighbor suggested that she approach the school district to offer an after-school program.

After consulting with Stephanie Stoneberg, the principal of Oakland, Leafblad went before a school board meeting. The board voted unanimously to allow the after-school classes at the three district elementary schools.

The classes cost $5 a week and run for 14 weeks. The first classes began in early September and end in December. The second term begins in January.

"I wanted to introduce kids to basic dramatics," Leafblad explained. "Upper grades have access to drama programs, but there were no programs for this age group."

The emphasis in the Creative Kids Club is fun.

"It has to be fun or the kids lose interest," Leafblad said. "They are at an age that has a short attention span."

The acting coach noted that she has learned a few life lessons from her students, as well.

"I have to be patient," she said. "I learned from the kids that I need to remember we are not at the Marriott Lincolnshire, and everything is not going to be perfect. It's OK to just have fun."

The acting skills of the children cover a broad range.

"Some kids come naturally to role-playing," Leafblad observed. "For others, it takes everything they have within themselves, but they still want to do it."

For many children, acting is a vehicle to self-confidence.

"It may not be the answer to the drug problem," Leafblad commented, "but if a child has the confidence to stand up in front of 500 people, he can have the courage to say 'no' to someone offering him drugs."

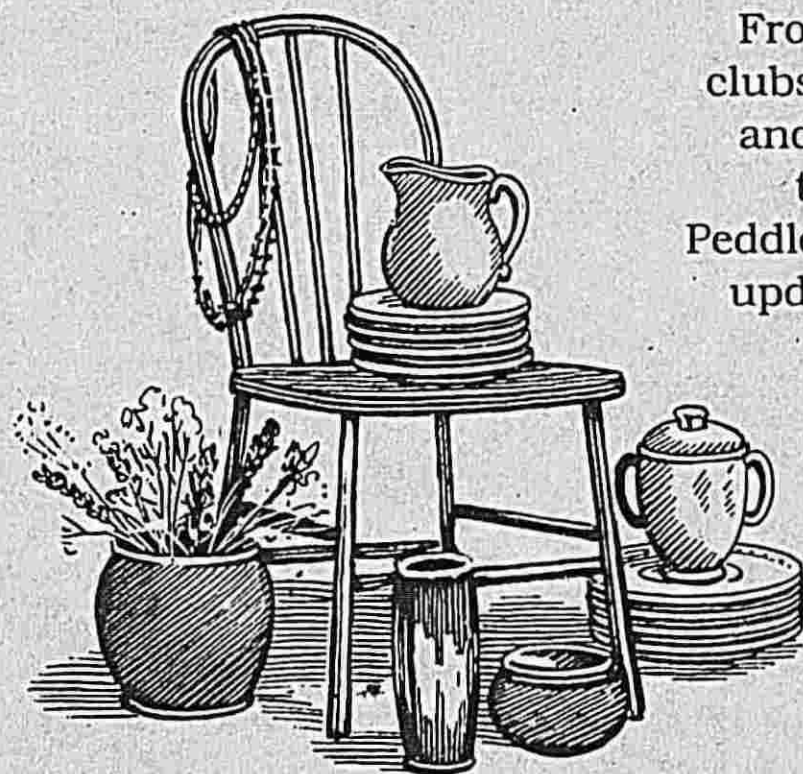

Children can acquire other skills from the acting experience, such as improved memory and reading skills.

This season, each of the three groups will be performing a Christmas-themed play. One of them, "Surviving Christmas Island," is Leafblad's original script spoofing the "Survivor" television show.

"How Santa got His Christmas Tree" will be performed at Oakland on the evening of Dec. 5. "Surviving Christmas Island" will be performed by W.C. Petty students on Dec. 6. "Christmas Spirit" will be performed by Antioch Lower Grade students on Dec. 7. Admission is $2 for adults and $1 for children 12 and under.

Local church helps Chicago Mission

Donations now being accepted

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Donations will be accepted Nov. 24 - Dec. 1 by the Chain of Lakes Community Bible Church for a program to support the needs of the Pacific Garden Mission in Chicago.

"This project started out small scope," said spokesman for the church Bill Liniewicz. "It grew into a large two-pronged project."

He explained that the first part is that 100-200 junior high and high school students will be participating in a Winter Camp retreat in which they spend Dec. 2 at the three homes run by the mission doing things like cooking, cleaning and making beds.

"Kids around here really don't have any idea of how good they have it," said Liniewicz. "We want to increase their sensitivity to the plight of others."

According to Liniewicz, Pacific Garden Mission operates three separate homes: one for battered and homeless women, one for children and one for men. He said, "This mission has been around for a long time and is very well known for the work it does."

The men's shelter offers food, clothing and overnight accommodations for some 400 men each day. About 100 women and children's needs are met on a daily basis.

The mission also offers medical and dental care provided by volunteer doctors, nurses and dentists, treating everything from the common cold to life-threatening illnesses and counseling for addicts of drugs and alcohol. To round out the program, career development training is offered to teach skills so men and women can rejoin the workforce and find permanent housing.

The second part is that the church would be bringing donated items to the mission on the same day the teens are volunteering. "All types of donations are needed, (including) clothing and especially winter coats are needed at this time of year. There is also a need for new underwear."

Other items on the mission's wish list are shoes, small packages of Kleenex, gloves, hats and caps, clothing in all sizes for all genders, nylons and socks, towels, sponges, twin sheets—both white and colors, household items for those who need to find a new place to live, slippers, used eyeglasses, moisturizing lotion and all manner of toiletries.

"We are also asking people to donate new Christmas presents," said Liniewicz. "These people wouldn't have a Christmas without donations of gifts." These items should be unwrapped so that the mission can distribute them appropriately.

Donations will be accepted on weekdays between Nov. 24-Dec. 1 between the hours of 9 a.m.-7 p.m., and on Saturdays between 8 a.m.-5 p.m. at both the Chain of Lakes Community Bible Church located at 23201 Grass Lake Rd., and at the Antioch True Value Hardware store at 488 Orchard St. "There will be school buses at both locations to accept the donations," said Liniewicz.

Direct charitable contributions can also be brought to these locations. Checks should be made payable to PGM (Pacific Garden Mission).

The mission has been in operation since 1877, and began accepting women in 1943. It produces an old-fashioned style weekly radio program called "Unshackled" that dramatizes the true-life stories of real people.

For more information about making donations to the mission contact Liniewicz at 838-5811, or Kerry Bauman at 838-0103.

County treasurer gives late taxpayers final notice

In an effort to reach those Lake County residents who have not yet paid the second installment of their real estate taxes, Lake County Treasurer Robert Skidmore mailed out the 12999 Final Notice tax bills to delinquent taxpayers. The Treasurer's office has taken measures to assure that tax bills get to property owners and has been innovative in easing the payment process.

However, to avoid going to tax sale, all late payments must be made by 5 p.m. on Dec. 1 in the Treasurer's office at 18 N. County St., Room 102, Waukegan Postmark will not be accepted at this point.

The tax sale is on Dec. 4. Taxes are sold there to Tax Buyers to assure that taxing district can recover their money. At that point, taxpayers will have up to two years to reimburse the Tax Buyer at a rate of up to 18 percent interest. The taxpayer will also be charged an additional $94 by the Treasurer's office. Last year, 40 tax buyers bid on approximately 4,000 delinquent real estate taxes. However, as a result of the Treasurer's extra efforts to inform taxpayers of their payment obligations this taxing cycle and changes made to ease the payment process, delinquencies are down 20 percent.

All payments received after Nov. 17 at 5 p.m. must be in cash, cashier's check, certified check or money order, made payable to the Lake County Collector. No personal checks will be accepted from Nov. 20 until Dec. 1. The Treasurer's office hours are Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m.

While the county only receives $.08 of every $1 paid in taxes, the Lake County Treasurer serves as the County Collector and is also responsible for depositing, investing and disbursing funds on behalf of the county, schools, cities, townships, parks, forest preserves and fire departments. As an elected official, the Treasurer works with 23 elected County Board members, other elected officials and over 2,800 permanent employees to provide leadership and services to over 617,000 Lake County residents. Feel free to contact the Lake County Treasurer at 360-6363 or visit the Treasurer's web site at www.co.lake.il.us/treasurer for more information.

Dist. 34 officials to attend conference

Board members to meet, discuss problems

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

A delegation of 10 school board members and administrators from Antioch Community Consolidated School Dist. 34 will participate at the 2000 Joint Annual Conference of the Illinois Association of School Boards, Illinois Association of School Administrators and the Illinois Association of School Business Officials along with nearly 6,000 other school officials at a three-day working session on Nov. 17-19 in Chicago.

"Both Dr. (Darrell) Dick and I are very pleased that the full board has decided to attend this conference," said interim superintendent Donald Gossett. He said that he, Dick and business manager Vicky Cullinan round out the 10-person delegation.

"This conference presents a rare opportunity for school board members and school administrators from throughout the state to meet to discuss common problems and solutions, obtain guidance from experts in many areas of education, and gain a deeper understanding of the issues that confront our schools," said school board president Earl "Bud" Newton.

The conference schedule includes more than 100 workshops and panel discussions on a broad range of educational topics, including school funding, technology, legislative and legal developments and special education.

One session will focus on how local school boards can better govern by calling for greater accountability. The panel will hear of one board of education's experience with monitoring students, staff and school performance.

There will be a workshop for newly elected board members that will help them get off to a good start. A separate workshop will be held for school board presidents.

"There is such a vast range of issues before school boards today, and the issues themselves are so intricate that we can't afford to go it alone," said Newton. "This statewide meeting of school leaders offers a stockpile of reliable information and guidance that otherwise would have to be gathered from any sources at much greater cost."

According to Gossett, each board member has received a booklet of Illinois School Board Association policy questions that are up for vote. "This will give our board members an opportunity to have their say about these issues," said Gossett. This vote will determine the programs and activities on behalf of public education in the year ahead.

Opportunities to do good are plentiful

There are many upcoming events that will allow for Antioch residents to do an abundance of good deeds.

On Nov. 18, the Antioch Lower Grade School is hosting its annual Turkey Trot, a fund-raiser to benefit the science and technology program at Maravela's in Fox Lake. There will be raffles, auctions to raise money while those attending enjoy a social event complete with hors' doeuvres, a cash bar and a disc jockey to round out the evening when the auction is over.

The Turkey Trot is sponsored by the PTO and is open to the public. Tickets are available for $10 in advance at Antioch Lower Grade, Oakland and W.C. Petty school offices, or $12 at the door.

Among the special items to be auctioned off are baskets created by each of the classes, and 36 Jackson Pollack inspired paintings also created by the Antioch Lower Grade school classes.

As always, local businesses have come through with lots of donations to auctioned off as well.

Two events are taking place on

OUR TOWN

Julie Murphy

Nov. 25, both at 10:30 a.m.

The first is a musical presentation by PM&L Theatre, and sponsored by the Chamber. Magic Dave, a children's magician, will perform at the theatre. One child will be selected from the audience to be levitated. The cost of admission is two non-perishable food items that will be donated to the Antioch Food Pantry.

At the same date and time, and for the same admission price, "Stuart Little" will be shown at the Antioch Movie Theater. This event is being sponsored by the First National Bank-Employee Owned. Don't forget to bring two non-perishable food items to be donated to the Antioch Food Pantry.

Donations will be accepted Nov. 24-Dec. 1 by the Chain of Lakes Community Bible Church for a program to support the needs of the Pacific Garden Mission in Chicago.

Items on the mission's wish list are clothing—especially winter coats, shoes, small packages of Kleenex, gloves, hats and caps, clothing in all sizes for all genders, nylons and socks, towels, sponges, twin sheets both white and colors, household items for those who need to find a new place to live, slippers, used eyeglasses, moisturizing lotion and all manner of toiletries.

'The Curious Savage' opens at PM&L

The curtain is going up on PM&L's comedy "The Curious Savage" by John Patrick at 8 p.m. on Nov. 17 at the PM&L Theatre located at 877 Main St.

Continuing dates are Nov. 18, 24-25 and Dec. 1-2 at 8 p.m., and Nov. 19, 26 and Dec. 3 at 2:30 p.m.

The cast and crew, directed by Tom Hausman of Antioch, have been spending many hours learning and perfecting the show for the enjoyment of PM&L audiences.

Those attending opening night will be treated to a champagne party where they can mingle with cast members after the show.

For reservations call 395-3055, or stop by the box office. Box office hours are Monday through Thursday from 5:30-7:30 p.m., on Saturday from 11 a.m.-2 p.m. and 90 minutes before curtain time on show nights.

Ticket prices are $10 for adults and $8 for students and seniors.

"The classes are geared developmentally toward the children," said Grom. Eaton added that the techniques used varied some based on the children's age. She said, "Some of the classes used squirt and spray bottles. The younger grades were also allowed to use stamps."

The PTO funds all of the tools and materials. "Ace Hardware in Antioch was very generous and gave us cans of custom paint that had been returned to them," said Eaton. "They also special mixed us some special colors so that we would have colors like red and black."

She added that the Hobby Lobby in Round Lake gave the PTO almost 50 percent off the price of canvases. Additionally, a 50 percent discount will be given on frames to those buy the paintings at the auction.

Eaton has a strong background in art, having sold paintings and dabbled in all art mediums. She has attended seminars to ensure the volunteer art appreciation program meets the goals outlined by the state. Parent and teacher surveys assess the program.

"I've been so impressed by Carole's passion and intensity," said Grom. "It is her generosity and ingenuity that has brought this together."

In addition to abstract expressionism, students will study Pablo Picasso and cubism, Salvador Dali and surrealism and Grant Woods and regionalism. Last year they studied Renoir, Monet, Georgia O'Keefe and Chuck Jones among others.

Of the auction Grom said, "The children can see that what they have created not only adds to the beauty of the school, but will now fortify the school financially as well."

"These are the coolest kids," said Eaton. "These paintings are really great."

APPROVAL

Builders is that Bowles Rd. will be realigned before construction begins.

A change to the plat reducing the number of water detention areas from two down to one brought several questions. Tom Miles, of Thelen Sand and Gravel, explained, "We were able to provide the detention necessary in the one area."

The one detention area is located between the townhouse area and an area of single family homes. "Who will handle the maintenance of the detention area?" asked board member Don Jansky.

President of KLM Builders Kim Meier answered, "That's a good question. There won't be too much maintenance as it is a dry bottom detention. It's really just a matter of mowing."

Village attorney Ken Clark said, "There's going to have to be a master association. Some common problems are going to come up."

Meier concluded that the townhouses would take care of the detention.

The townhouses will range in size from 1,600 to 2,300 square feet and be priced from $170,000.

"We tried to give a better architectural look to the buildings," said Meier. "We think there is definitely a niche for this product. The price range leaves off where the single family homes (in Heron Harbor) start."

No valid driver's license

Gerardo Trujillo, 22, of 728 Linden in Waukegan, was arrested on Nov. 14 at 4:24 a.m. at the intersection of Rte. 173 and Eagle Ridge Dr. for driving without a valid driver's license.

Police locked a black Mercury traveling 71 mph in a 55 mph zone. When stopped, Trujillo told the officer he did not have a driver's license. His identifiers were run through LEADS/SOS with him having no record on file.

Trujillo was arrested and transported to the Antioch Police Dept. where he was put through booking procedures and issued citations for speeding, no valid driver's license and operating an uninsured vehicle.

He was released on bond pending his Dec. 13 court date.

Jacob K. Adams, 25, of 1420 N. Pleasant in Round Lake Beach, was arrested on Nov. 9 at 1:03 a.m. at the intersection of Rtes. 83 and 173 for driving without a valid driver's license.

Police paced a red Pontiac's speed at 45 mph in a 30 mph zone. When stopped, Adams told police he had lost his driver's license and handed the officer an Illinois State identification card.

Adams' identifiers were run through

LEADS/NCIC/SOS via dispatch with license having expired Jan. 4, 1997.

He was arrested and transported to the Antioch Police Dept. where he was put through booking procedures and issued citations for speeding and no valid driver's license. He was released on personal recognition pending his Dec. 27 court date.

DUI

Brian A. Gibbs, 30, of 41292 N. Lincoln Ave. in Antioch, was arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol on Nov. 11 at 1:02 a.m. on Main St. at Windsor Terrace.

Police were dispatched to the area of Main St. and Windsor Terrace for a traffic accident, and observed only one motorcycle was involved.

Gibbs said his motorcycle drifted right traveling onto the gravel shoulder of Main St. He said he lost control and went into a grass ditch. Gibbs estimated he was traveling 60 mph in a posted 30 mph zone.

Rescue personnel evaluated Gibbs who released after signing a medical release.

Additionally, police detected the strong odor of alcoholic beverage on Gibbs, and requested he perform field sobriety tests. Gibbs was unable to complete the tests.

He was arrested and transported to the Antioch Police Dept. where he was put through booking procedures and issued citations for driving too fast for conditions, failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident, driving under the influence (refused chemical testing) and operating an uninsured vehicle.

He was released on proper bond pending his Dec. 5 court date.

Theft under $300

Debra K. Del Camp, 38, of 982 Main St. in Antioch was arrested for theft under $300 on Nov. 10 at 9:32 a.m.

The theft occurred at Coach House Laundry, where Del Camp worked.

The owner had experienced money missing since he hired Del Camp. When she quit for a time in September, the money stopped disappearing.

The owner hired Del Camp back when her hours at Lion Video were cut.

One morning the owner came in and discovered $20 missing with an I.O.U. from Del Camp. Days later, a night deposit receipt had been changed from $55.06 to $35.06, but $30 was missing. The employee working that night (not Del Camp) said the deposit should have been $55.06.

The owner suspected Del Camp had come in after hours and removed the money.

Police located Del Camp and told her of the complaint filed against her. She agreed to come to the Antioch Police Dept. for an interview. She was given miranda rights, and agreed to speak about the complaint.

Del Camp said she had never taken money from the laundry before the incident with the I.O.U., and the incident where she changed the night deposit receipt. She was issued a non-traffic ticket for theft under $300.

She was released on bond pending her Dec. 13 court date.

Suspended driver's license

David A. Ziamba, 40, of 26632 W. Cedar in Antioch, was arrested for driving with a suspended driver's license and suspended registration on Nov. 9 at 7:38 p.m., on Rte. 173.

Police observed a vehicle without rear registration lights, and pulled it over.

Ziamba provided police with a driver's license, but no proof of insurance. The officer ran the plates through LEADS with both the registration and driver's license coming back as suspended.

Ziamba was arrested and transported to the Antioch Police Dept. where he was put through booking procedures and issued citations for no rear registration plate lights, operating an uninsured vehicle, driving while suspended and operating a vehicle with suspended registration.

He was released on personal recognition pending his Dec. 27 court date.

LINDENHURST

Richard V. Jinkens, 34, of 2017 Elizabeth in Zion, was arrested by Lindenhurst Police on Nov. 5 at 9:40 p.m. at Grand Ave. and Sand Lake Rd. when he was observed driving 50 mph in a 35 mph zone. He failed field sobriety tests. A PBT administered at the site showed a .101 BAC. A subsequent Breathalyzer test showed a .113 BAC. Jinkens was charged with speeding, DUI, DUI over .08 and driving an uninsured vehicle. He was released after posting $100 cash bond and his driver's license, pending appearance in Waukegan courtroom C-402 on Nov. 21 at 9 a.m.

Daniel J. Rudnick, 39, of 38157 N. Fairfield Rd. in Lake Villa, was arrested by Lindenhurst Police on Nov. 4 at 1:18 a.m. on Grand Ave. near Lindenhurst Dr. when he was observed driving 49 mph in a 35 mph zone. A PBT showed a .116 BAC. A subsequent Breathalyzer showed .133 BAC. He was charged with DUI, DUI over .08 and speeding. He was released after posting his driver's license and $100 cash bond, pending appearance in Waukegan courtroom C-402.

Kimberly D. Knipp, 27, of 26055 W. Sunset in Antioch, was arrested by Lindenhurst Police on Nov. 1 at 1:26 a.m. at Emerald Ln. and Rte. 132. She failed field sobriety tests. A breath test showed a .131 BAC. A plastic cup containing an alcoholic beverage was found in her car. She was charged with improper lane usage, DUI, DUI over .08 and transport of open alcohol. She was released on a $3,000 I-bond, pending appearance in Waukegan courtroom C-402.

Elementary school offers non-traditional multi-age class

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

At the Antioch Lower Grade School, first and second-graders are given the opportunity to learn in a non-traditional multi-age classroom. There are two of these combined classrooms designed for flexibility so that the classroom adjusts to fit the needs of the individual students instead of having the students adjust to the curriculum.

Principal Mary Grom said, "This setting is more individualized and more flexible. There is no intentional level grouping within this setting."

She explained that students vary not only in age, but also in experience and readiness to grasp certain concepts.

"Some students are more thoughtful and reflective," said Grom. "Some need more of challenge, and others need a chance to work at their own pace. These classrooms give the students a chance to adjust."

Grom describes the two teachers chosen to teach these multiage classrooms— Pattie Devers and Josalyn Reed— as always having been very flexible and interactive with the children.

"Our school has been doing this for about five years," said Grom. "We feel that the children are at the optimal age for this type of class between first and second grade."

She explained some of the benefits. "This is a failure-proof system for the children. It offers them the developmental opportunity for them to explore and is a way for them to have success."

Grom added that there is a continuum of learning for the students, and that subjects are not "chunked" together. "When students are at a developmental moment, we are addressing it right then," the principal added.

"This type of classroom setting isn't right for every student," said Grom. "Many students flourish in a traditional teaching environment, and we wouldn't want to take that away. Sometimes, though, the multiage setting is a better match for a student's emotional needs."

Grom explained that there is still a standard curriculum being used as a foundation. The difference is that students have two years to meet those standards, not just one. She added that students become more tolerant of differences, make friends with different aged children, and often tutor each other. "There is no better role model than another student," she said.

Students who come into this setting as first-graders stay in the same class with the same teacher and many of the same students for two years. "This is very helpful for both teachers and students at the beginning of the year," said Grom. "Both know what to expect from each other, and it doesn't take as long for the class to settle in and for learning to begin."

"This is great for parent/teacher relationships too," Grom added. "Communication is more open and a higher comfort level."

Students of the Antioch Lower Grade first and second multiage classrooms take advantage of the nice weather to go on an impromptu field trip to the sawmill.

Chamber plans for election of new directors

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

The Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry is preparing to elect new members to its board of directors.

Each year, three new directors are elected to a three-year term of office. The board is made up of nine directors. Executive director Barbara Porch said, "Nomination letters have gone out to all Chamber members, and each member can nominate up to three people."

Porch explained that not everyone nominated ends up on the ballot. "We call those who have been nominated and ask them if they will accept the nomination," she said. "Some people are already busy with other community obligations and don't feel that they can serve on the board too."

Karen Dunham, Alice Wegener and John Ruffin are vacating spots on the board. "The people going off the board are welcome to be nominated, and they would be able to serve again," Porch explained.

If elected, those who do accept the nomination will be expected to chair one committee and serve on a second. "We enjoy our work. It makes you feel wonderful to be able to bring all of these great activities to our community. We do a lot of things over the course of the year," added Porch.

Porch, who has served on the board for seven years—first on the board, then as executive director, said the Chamber office runs very efficiently, and phone calls for various things are done by the office and not by the individual directors.

The ballot will be made of all the people who have both been nominated to serve and who have accepted the nomination. Ballots will be mailed to Chamber members at the end of the month, and will be due back to the Chamber by about Dec. 10.

"Ballots have to be mailed in on the original letterhead or dropped off at the office in person," said Porch. "We cannot accept a ballot that has been faxed in."

A committee of two people from the board of directors, plus another Chamber member will count the ballots. "All of the ballots are hand counted," assured Porch.

NEIGHBORS

Name: Marc Mallen

Home: Lake Villa

Occupation: Owner of Innovative Ideas in Antioch

Community involvement: Member of the Chamber of Commerce and Industry. I helped to initiate the program for the flower barrels along Main St.

I'm originally from: I was born in Chicago, but lived in California for a number of years

I graduated from: California State in Northridge, Calif.

My family consists of: Myself and my wife.

My pets are: My three dogs, Mariah, Kody and Squirt.

What I like best about my town: The rural atmosphere that it maintains, and the friendly people.

The secret to my success: Our shop has a nice atmosphere and friendly dogs.

I relax by: Sometimes I watch television, sometimes I ride my motorcycle, and sometimes I play with the dogs. They are with us all the time, so they seem almost human.

My perfect day in Antioch would be: Any given balmy summer day.

Last book I read: I'm reading "God's Gifts for Men."

Favorite TV show is: This sounds kind of funny after the previous answer, but I really think "The Drew Carey Show" is one of the funniest shows.

Favorite movie: "G.I. Jane"

Favorite band or musician: Gordon Lightfoot, Santana, Jimmy Buffet

Favorite restaurant: Biloxi Grill

My life's motto is: Don't push issues.

If I won the lottery, I would: I would want to be counseled by my church. Impulses are material things, but I can't buy a new Corvette when some guy is homeless.

My greatest accomplishments are: Staying married for 16 years and turning it into a nice relationship.

I want to be remembered as: A caring, sensitive person who put his money where his mouth is.

My pet peeve is: When people know you're in a hurry and won't quit talking to let you go. Also, people who are full of themselves.

Most interesting person I ever met was: An elderly gentleman who came into the shop a month or so ago. He was sensitive and intuitive. He really intrigued me. He said he'd come back in, but he hasn't. Also, all of the pastors at Willow Creek Community Church.

If I had a plane ticket anywhere, I would go to: Greece.

A warm welcome to dirt

I could hardly believe my ears when I heard a news report proclaiming that so many children were coming down with allergies because of the near sterile environment they were accustomed to. It actually stated that those children who grew up in less than spotless houses were actually less prone to allergies than those who lived in picture perfect, Martha Stewart-type homes. I felt such vindication that my slovenly lifestyle had finally paid off. Not only had I saved a ton of money on cleaning products for our home, I also exposed my children to dust mites, mold, pollen and mildew, along with grunge and grime; and this, according to the facts, is a good thing.

It is about time us less than diligent housewives got credit for raising healthy children. Then, the next morning, staring up at me from the daily newspaper was a front page story confirming the radio report. According to the news story, the experts agree that every child should eat at least a bushel full of dirt during their formative years. Dam, to think I used to waste my time trying to decide between feeding my babies the strained carrots or the pureed peas when I could have just as easily stepped out into the backyard, filled their little warming bowl with a good heaping of God's black earth and let them go at it.

Shoot, on warm days I could have just sat them out in the sandbox with a spoon and been done with it. Of course, being the decent mother that I am, I would naturally have followed up such a scrumptious meal with a good, nutrient-filled, mineral-packed daily Flintstones chewable vitamin.

I had to resist some major temptation,

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

-Lynn Pringle

but the first thing I wanted to do with the article was make copies of it and send it off to a few eyebrow-raising relatives. To think I have laid awake at night worrying about the sticky kitchen floor, or fretting that the growth on the inside of the freezer was going to consume the refrigerator one day while we were gone and we would arrive home wondering who moved out the appliance and transplanted a fuzzy green bush in the kitchen. You see now it didn't matter, because although the house would never have passed the white glove inspection, our children would be healthy—and have you ever heard anyone say, "Life is good as long as there is no dust on the piano?" NOOO, they say "Life is as good as long as you have your health." So with that thought in mind, we can all rest easily tonight and be rid of our guilt-ridden pangs about housecleaning, unless of course your mother-in-law is coming for a visit. Then I just frame the article, hang it in various locations around the house, and serve a big heaping side dish of dirt at dinner.

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle."

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

Pastor shares experience at brunch

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Pastor Durain Hughes from the Kingdom of Our Lord Christian Fellowship Church in Milwaukee, Wis. will be the guest speaker for the brunch meeting of Antioch Aglow Community Lighthouse on Nov. 18 at the Hunter Country Club in Richmond.

In 1984, Hughes was struck by car and pronounced dead. He will give testimony of his death experience when he received a message that it was not his time to die.

"Usually these brunch meetings are just for women," said Anne Marie Olhava, one of the event planners. "With this pastor as speaker, we thought it was appropriate to open it up to men as well."

Hughes was ordained as an elder in 1979 and as a pastor in 1997. He does volunteer work for an inner city agency, Career Youth Development, where he helps families who are the victims of homicide. He also stepped into help the families who suffered loss at the hands of serial killer Jeffrey Dahmer.

The pastor brings this message to gang members: "Put down your guns and stop killing. You don't have to die young. You can have a positive impact in life."

At the brunch, Hughes will tell how he has been fulfilling the vision received in death in his life today.

Brunch will be served at 9:15 a.m. and will cost $8. Reservations are required, and can be made by contacting Olhava at 815-648-2166. The Hunter Country Club is located one block east of Rte. 12 on Rte. 173.

Naming the Warren Township Center tennis courts after Lance Lavery definitely has a nice ring to it. The idea would also be fitting.

Well, if you're talking about tennis, Lance's name certainly come to mind.

In addition to coaching The College of Lake County men's and women's tennis teams from 1876-1991, Lance served as the program director and liaison for Warren Township, as well as park districts such as Gurnee, Grayslake Wauconda, North Chicago, Waukegan and Great Lakes, for 10-12 years.

Overall, you could say he was the tennis guru of Lake County for nearly three decades.

Notice inference to the past tense. That's because Lake County lost a good friend and tennis icon a few short weeks ago. Lance passed away suddenly Nov. 3 after suffering from a massive coronary at the age of 54.

"He was a really good teacher and very patient with his students and players," said CLC Athletic Director Gene Hanson. "He knew how to get the most out of them, whatever their level of play."

The Western Illinois graduate also conducted and ran tournaments all over the county, including co-directing the Waukegan Tournament for a number of years.

"They (the tournaments) were definitely innovative," said long-time friend and former CLC men's and women's tennis coach Dick Watson.

Watson and Lance teamed up for doubles action, where they played in numerous county and state tournaments.

"He was a very intelligent player and loved to teach the game," continued Watson. "Lance was instrumental in my coming to CLC. He was a great friend and produced a number of great players over the years. He was Mr. Tennis to a lot of people and will be greatly missed."

During his illustrious career, Lance was also the president of 'Love-40,' a huge competitive tennis program, for three years.

A celebration of Lance's life will commence at 3 p.m. on Sunday, Nov. 19 at his ex-wife Donna's home, located at 1570 Waukegan Rd. in Knollwood.

Lance is survived by his two daughters Tracy and Paige.

And even when not right in the middle of the action at CLC, Lance was always supportive and thrilled about what the Lancer tennis program was doing.

Somehow, I don't think that will ever change, as he is probably asking St. Peter to serve it up as we speak.

And while we're on the topic of team players, yours truly is responsible for this week's Lakelife, found of course, in the County section.

The topic was a touchy one but with the help of CEO and President of Arden Shore Child and Family Services, Dora Maya, everything went over without a hitch.

Dora and her staff in the corporate office, located in Vernon Hills, have carried on a tradition of services that includes providing and assisting with foster care for children primarily aged 8-19.

It was two-fold and only fitting that Dora became involved in this profession.

"It's a very rewarding profession because I get to exercise my administrative skills while also getting to work with people people," she said.

A graduate of Sorbonne University in Paris, France with a doctorate in industrial psychology, Dora has been in the field for 15 years, including the last year-and-a-half at Arden Shore.

Prior to Arden Shore, she was the director at the Association House in Chicago for eight years, where she worked with people with behavioral health problems.

Lancer men's hoops knocking at the door

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

For about 32 minutes, the College of Lake County men's basketball team gave The College of DuPage, ranked as high as #11 in the NJCAA pre-season polls, all it could handle.

"We've just got to realize it's a 40 minute game-not 5, not 20," said Lancer Head Coach Rob Sandler, whose team slipped to 1-3 after dropping an 84-68 decision to COD.

"But I'm really proud of our guys. The intensity was there for most of the game, which was very refreshing to see with this group. We have a lot of things to look forward to."

One of those many things includes the hot perimeter shooting of sophomore guard Jim Nilles. Nilles connected on six trey's en route to a game-high 24 points. Nilles also dished out five assists.

Meanwhile, the Lancers found an additional spark plug in fellow sophomore guard Jimichael Slaby, who poured in 16 second-half points to lead a comeback that saw CLC fight back from as many as 22 points down.

"He sat out last year but we're definitely glad he's with us this season," said Sandler. "He really provides some spurts for us. He can shoot outside as well as drive to the hole."

Slaby's bucket with 3:30 left in the game closed the gap to 69-59, but that's as close as CLC would get as COD outscored them 15-9 to close out the game.

Overall, rebounding is an area that needs to be worked on for the Lancers. But signs of a strong rebounding team are evident.

Case in point-freshman Antioch product Matt Koss, who netted 11 points to go along with nine boards. Koss corralled seven of those in a strong first-half that saw the hosts trail by only six (36-30) at half-time. The 6-foot, 7-inch forward also tallied two steals and two assists.

COD pretty much put the game out of reach, outscoring Lake County 21-5 to open the second half.

"Turnovers hurt us," said Sandler. "I think we had five during their (COD's) run and 16 for the game. But COD is an excellent team with an All-American. They have so many weapons." CLC posts first victory

The Lancers won 71-70 for their first win after two hard-fought losses. Dan Garrett, a freshman from Zion-Benton, hit the key basket with just over a minute left.

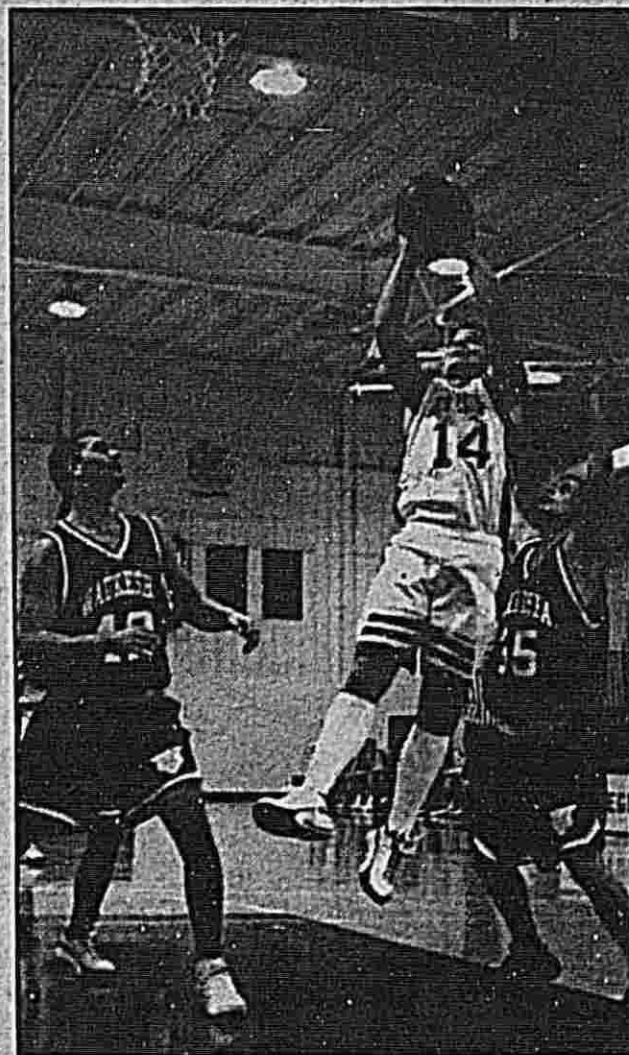

"He split two defenders underneath the basket," said CLC coach Rob Sandler.

"Justin Claiborne shut down Stritch's Jermaine Clark in the second half. Garrett held Stritch's other hot shooter, Rick Meding to one three-point basket. Overall, all 10 Lancers ho played contributed to a well-deserved victory," Sandler said.

Jim Nilles had his second straight 27-point game to lead CLC (1-2). Jimichael Slaby, a sophomore from Round Lake, had 10. Aaron Coleman, a sophomore from Warren, added 11 points and Claiborne had 9.

Nilles added six more three-pointers, giving him 16 for the first three games.

CLC trailed 40-38 at half-time. Stritch's leading scorer had 18 points. Steve Peterson contributed to this report.

Sports Safety Training class hopes to open some eyes

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

In the past year or two, it has become increasingly important for coaches and trainers, particularly in the high school and youth sports setting, to have a firm grasp on how to handle injuries as they might occur on the playing fields.

And Condell Memorial Hospital's Sports Medicine Department has been a major vehicle in promoting just this.

The latest advancement toward that goal took place at Grayslake High School. A group of 14 Grayslake High coaches, two of which were student-athletic trainers, congregated for an eight-hour course, sponsored by Condell and The American Red Cross.

"It was basically a trial run for us," said one of the course instructors and Trinity International University Program Coordinator Kurt Freund. "Our goal was to go through materials as to try and assess a level and skill check for future classes."

Freund was joined by fellow instructor Jon Bolles, also Condell-licensed athletic trainer at Trinity International.

What Freund and Bolles learned was that two different future courses can possibly be offered.

"One of the courses would deal with full-time coaches who have had some previous training in CPR and injury prevention," said

Freund, "while the other would involve people who have not had any prior CPR or first-aid training or injury observation-basically, the volunteer and parent coaches."

Four different areas were covered during the course.

Freund said the class spent most of the time dealing with CPR skills and basic first-aid application, which included areas such as ice application and splinting.

The second area dealt with how to recognize the serious injury versus one that can be treated at home and does not require an EMS call.

Administrative aspects and being prepared for injuries was another important stage discussed during the class. Being prepared included proper documentation, emergency contacts and obtaining the correct insurance information.

Prevention, perhaps the most important and overlooked element, was also addressed.

"Coaches play a larger role than they think in the prevention of injuries and we want them to realize that," added Freund. "That ranges from what drills a respective coach uses with his athletes/team and what might be included in how they practice. It pretty much comes down to how they coach, essentially."

Freund went on to say that, even though this initial course was closed to Grayslake coaches only, more future classes are in the works.

"We're really interested in hearing from the park district's and youth sports organizations," continued Freund. "If they're interested (as a group, mostly), we'll come to them and teach the course."

Preparation and prevention are the two buzz words here. According to Freund, all injuries are preventable to some degree based on the skills of the skills of the coach and what they're athletes are doing for drills. For example, checking the football field for holes prior to a practice.

"This will hopefully kick off the start of something big and be ongoing as we'd like to get more area schools involved in the future," said Freund.

"The purpose of these courses will be to help educate and train athletic trainers and coaches as to curb injuries that occur at sporting events," added Freund. "This is just one of the many educational programs we're doing here in the Sports Medicine Department at Condell."

Freund said that two more courses are slated for Nov. 18 and Jan. 27 but he wasn't sure if they would be open to the public.

"We are interested primarily in teaching these classes as groups contact us," said Freund. "But next summer we're looking at offering these courses to the public on a regular basis."

For further information on future first-aid and CPR courses or sports medicine in general, please contact Larry Scire, Condell's Manager of Sports Medicine, at 990-5780 or 990-5792.

Corsairs football one step closer to Prep Bowl

By ROB BACKUS
Staff Reporter

It hasn't been an easy season by any stretch of the imagination for Carmel football. The Corsairs, playing in the Catholic Metro White conference, have had one of the toughest schedules in the area.

Despite playing state powerhouses like Joliet Catholic, Marian Catholic and Bishop McNamara, the Corsairs have still managed to amass a 9-4 record and are still alive in the Catholic Metro playoffs with a chance to earn a spot in the prestigious Prep Bowl.

"The schedule has been tough," said head coach Andy Bitto. "Any of the teams we played could have beat us."

This will be the second time that Carmel will face Marian Catholic this year, with Marian winning the initial game 21-0 early in the season.

While the score would indicate a big win for Marian, the Corsairs did hang tough and only trailed 6-0 at the half. Unfortunately for Carmel, Marian was able to completely shut down Carmel's strong option attack. If the Corsairs hope to compete in this game, that trend will have to change.

"We couldn't run the option against (Marian)," said Bitto. "We're going to have to block the perimeter, control the clock and hopefully be able to throw the ball."

Should the Corsairs win, they will advance to the finals of the Catholic Metro playoffs against Holy Cross on November 18. The winner of that game will play at Soldier Field on Thanksgiving weekend against the top Chicago Public League team in the Prep Bowl.

Carmel is still alive because of a dominant 31-14 win over St. Rita on November 11.

The Corsairs ran the ball 45 times for 339 yards, an average of 7.5 yards per carry.

"Our kids took complete control of the game," said Bitto. "I'm really excited about that."

Carmel took the lead 7-0 in the first quarter on an 89-yard run by Ben Lawrence, one play after a St. Rita fumble deep in Corsair territory.

Carmel's next score came in the second quarter set up once again by a St. Rita turnover, this time by a Dexter Reid interception. On the ensuing play, Patrick Adrien ran it in from 26 yards out to give the Corsairs a 14-0 lead.

After St. Rita pulled to within a touchdown at 14-7, Matt Roe scored the eventual game-winning touchdown from one yard out to give Carmel a 21-7 lead which turned out to be enough. Jon Mikrut later added a 31-yard field goal and Ben Lawrence had a 59-yard run to conclude Carmel's scoring late in the game. Adam Chorazy then blocked a 24-yard field goal with seven seconds remaining as Carmel's defense rose to the occasion when it had to.

Bitto is looking forward to the rematch against Marian Catholic and for the chance to play in the Prep Bowl. "It would be great to be part of the 90-year-old tradition of the Prep Bowl," said Bitto. "I'm excited about the opportunity."

ACHS developing strong tradition in cheerleading

By B.A. CARDONI
Correspondent

The Antioch Community High School Cheerleaders hosted a junior high school cheerleading clinic last Saturday as part of the fundraising effort for the club. The clinic, which ended with a student competition, took place from 1-4 p.m.

Area middle school girls were given the opportunity to learn stunting, cheer technique and gymnastics. Varsity coach Robin Gwinn also held a safety clinic for the coaches.

"Stunting is one of the very biggest highlights for the girls. It's an aspect of cheering that has a lot of crowd appeal as well as judge appeal when it comes to competitions," Gwinn said.

Gwinn also said that the popularity of stunting is one of the main reasons that safety is important, which is why she combines the coaches clinic with what the girls are learning from the Sequit squads.

The clinic was held for the first time last year and was very successful. According to Gwinn there are some area junior high schools that require the clinic as a safety precaution for their girls who want to participate in cheerleading.

This year's cheer tutors had a special claim to fame to offer their students—professional experience. In addition to being members of a cheerleading club that has qualified for state competitions for almost 15 years, this year's squads cheered the Chicago Bears on to their recent win over the Indianapolis Colts.

Kate Gilday, a varsity cheerleader that was teaching stunting at the clinic, was also at the Bear's game. "We started a 'defense-defense' cheer, and the crowd nearby caught on," she said. We could soon hear the crowd-chant wave across the whole stadium; it was so cool," Gilday exclaimed.

Gwinn confirmed, "It was so exciting, everyone cheered, even on our way out, the vendors and tailgate parties were cheering the girls all the way to the bus!" Gwinn revealed that she was gratified to share the experience with the girls and was very proud to be their coach.

Tennis, coaching a way of life for Cittadino family

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Sometime during a match in his sophomore tennis season at Antioch, Scott Cittadino became more serious about his favorite sport.

He went on to state qualifying status twice in doubles, and decided to keep that interest going past high school. After a college career, he opted to pursue a career teaching English and coaching. In that regard, he is following in his father Frank's footsteps.

"He played a lot of different sports as a youth. He played basketball, baseball, wrestling and volleyball. When the boys were little (Erick, an older brother, also played tennis at Antioch and Western Illinois University), my wife and I ran the tennis program at Vacation Village. She would bring the boys by to play," Frank recalled.

Frank Cittadino coached tennis for 14 years combined at Antioch and Grant. Also having coached football, he is now athletic director at Grant. Scott completed his first season as girls varsity tennis coach at Wauconda.

The elder Cittadino said the coaching qualities did not come out in Scott until later in his playing days.

"It is becoming a year-round sport. It is like anything else, you have to play club sports, but there is no place within a 30 minutes around here to play," Frank said.

"Scott had the personality for doubles," Frank said. Scott reached state with Brian Jandula and later Adam Lipps as doubles partners.

Antioch was seeking to be "the best of the rest" of the old North Suburban Conference set-up and did just that. Erick was all-conference doubles.

Scott has been a fan of doubles format for a long time. NSC plays three doubles and two singles in dual matches.

"I enjoy the communication and the strategy. Singles has a gladiator mindset to it. It is head to head for two hours as they outwit each other. My sophomore year I thought I was too selfish and changed as a player. I also had a growing interest in English and to become an English teacher. I went to Western Illinois, and there was a big difference. It was looser and more political," Scott said. "I like doubles, because you have a partner cheering for you and supporting you. You can say, 'I'm glad I didn't have to get that shot."

Scott said he is a fan of Davis Cup Tennis. His favorite professionals are Pete Sampras and Andre Agasse.

Cittadino

He started student teaching at Wauconda in 1997, then took the JV tennis responsibilities. After three years on the JV level, he succeeded Jackie Jabcon, who retired last spring. He also enjoys helping out by videotaping home girls basketball games.

"I wish Erick and Scott could have played doubles together. Their styles were complimentary," Frank said.

Erick still plays tennis often, and Scott is not willing to concede anything just yet.

Frank admits he was tougher on his two boys when he coached Antioch tennis. "In some respects, I would get a little more worked up if they were playing well or not. My sons will say I was tougher on them," he joked.

Both are glad to be part of the Prairie Division in the NSC. The two Bulldogs wearing different logos, met in matches a few times this fall. The Bulldogs clashed in dual meets and when Grant hosted a tournament. Grant ran the North Suburban Conference meet as well.

"The conference is accomplished what we wanted - to give students a chance for recognition and an opportunity. Every sport has a cycle - you will see an up cycle, then a down cycle," Frank said.

Frank, a former football assistant coach at Grant, said he would not mind getting back into coaching if he retires as athletic director. Then the dual match win, would not only go to the Bulldogs, but the Cittadinos.

YOUTH SPORTS DIGEST

On Sunday, November 12, the Lake Villa Timberwolves Pom Pon squad participated in the Antioch Invitational 'Reach for the Stars' Cheerleading and Pom competition. Squads from Antioch, Plainfield, Glen Ellyn and Lake Villa participated at various age levels. This comes on the heels of a second-place finish by the Antioch squad the previous week. In their inaugural season, the Lake Villa Poms took home the first place trophy in the Jr. Varsity Division.

The newly formed pom pon squad faced many challenges, but the hard work and dedication shown by the girls and coaches was truly reflected in the wonderful results achieved in such a short period of time. Toni Laurich is the squads head coach, while Debbie Beadle, Stacie Gaido and Kristin Beadle also serve as coaches. Ashley Ginascol is also a coach and the teams choreographer.

And speaking of Ashley, a special thanks is in order. Ashley is one of the state champions on Antioch High School's Dance Team. She was kind enough to choreograph a beautiful routine, come to every practice (rushing from her own practices), and work with the girls all season long. We owe the season and our success to her. Thanks Ashley!

The Lake Villa Timberwolves Cheerleading and Pom Pon squad took some numbers, claiming first-place in the Reach for the Stars competition, held at Antioch Community High School. Team members include (in no order) Nicole Glogovsky, Kristina Post, Katie Hanley, Jessica Gaido, Anna Selgert, Stephanie Hill, Melissa Lamz, Margaret Ramirez, Sarah Ginascol, Christie Laurich, Christina Mazulis, Ashley Beadle, Lauren Pickhardt, Megan Venturi, Jenny Allen, Tara Koch, Janessa McLean, Kelly Neary, Nicoal Geske, Amber Hansen and Breanna Murphy. Wine-tasting party marks anniversary of home store

Staff Reporter

"What could be better than an evening of wine, women and fudge?" laughed Nancy Peters, as she described the concept behind a wine-tasting party.

"We're celebrating our second year of business," said the co-owner of Your Home Interiors Ltd., a home decorating store in Lake Villa.

Last year, Peters and her partner, Kay Chiappetta, invited only established customers—but this year, they opened their invitation-only party to anyone who had signed the shop's guest book during the year.

About 40 people visited the shop for the party. The lights were lowered, the major illumination coming from candles liberally placed around the store.

The theme of home-like hospitality was carried through at a sumptuous buffet of hors d'oeuvres and sweets—accompanied by a selection of fine wines, provided by the Glunz family winery in Grayslake.

"The fudge came from Something Sweet," Peters noted. "We want to treat everyone who comes to our store like royalty."

Apparently, the approach has succeeded. Since the business opened in September 1999, customers have come to the store, mostly because of an extremely positive word-of-mouth reputation.

Lake Villa resident Carolyn Bartlett, a well-established customer, attended the party with her daughter Rebecca and niece Colleen. Colleen, who had been invited by another regular customer, Julie Nielsen, bought several small items, although she had not intended to buy anything on this visit, her first time in the store.

"I'll be coming back here with more people," she said.

Carolyn, who works at Central Baptist Children's Home (CBCH), made a point of mentioning that last year the store donated a Christmas tree to CBCH.

Part of what makes the store so attractive to people is the ambiance, as well as the unique items on display.

"I love the store and the way everything is laid out in eye-catching themes," said Waukegan resident Minerva Vega, who was accompanied by her sister. "My sister moved to Painted Lakes, and she told me about the store," said Vega.

"We try to find items not sold anywhere else," Peters explained. "We ask vendors if anyone else is selling the same thing locally, and if they are, we don't take it. We want our customers to find things here they won't find at Waccamaw."

Peters and Chiappetta, who had been next door neighbors for 10 years in Grayslake, joined forces in starting the business in spite of their differing tastes in decor.

"We live in the same subdivision, in the same model of house, but they look completely different," said Peters, who described her personal home style as primitive, while her partner described her style as more contemporary.

A high level of customer satisfaction comes from the selection of special items offered at the shop. Customers can find everything from window treatments and wall-coverings to candles, wall plaques and other decorative items, as well as a small but eclectic assortment of special food items, suitable for gift-giving.

Library donations accepted

The library is especially in need of Antioch telephone directories from 1900-1980, and Antioch or Lake County city directories or farmer directories. Also needed are materials about Antioch or Lake County schools, churches, companies and organizations.

Donations are evaluated in the same manner as items purchased by the library. Items should be in excellent condition, and of interest to library patrons.

The library is happy to accept other donated books, except for textbooks, magazines or Reader's Digest condensed books.

Donated books may be added to the library collection, or may be put in the book sale as space permits.

Christmas tree farm opens

The Lake Cuchicachi Tree Farm opens for the holiday season on Nov. 24 from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. and will remain open every Saturday and Sunday through Dec. 23.

While those in search of the perfect tree are required to choose and cut their own, the farm offers free shaking and baling, plus free cider, hot chocolate and cookies.

Prices range from $40-$75, depending on size and type.

The farm is located one-quarter mile east of Rte. 45 on State Line Rd. in Antioch.

CLC expects expansion to be complete in 2002

By CAREL SCHMIDKOEFER
Staff Reporter

The College of Lake County (CLC) is hoping for the completion of the University Center at their Grayslake Campus in early 2002.

The University Center will be located on Washington Street and Lancer Lane situated in the Grayslake campus. CLC President, Dr. Gretchen Naff, said the location was selected specifically to keep the center close to the college, but independent of them as well, by a distance between the main campus and the center.

The original construction cost estimates were for $22 million, which would include a satellite campus in Waukegan. Eleven million dollars came from the State of Illinois.

Not included in this estimate was the cost of re-establishing wetlands that would be lost to the new development. The college is complying with requirements that wetlands lost in this fashion be restored 1.5 acres for every acre lost. This money must come out of the college's funds.

Replacement wetland areas are underway on the CLC Grayslake campus.

The University Center was brought to Lake County to provide conveniently located higher education to its residents. Presently, classes are being held throughout the Jewish-Polish teens to gather for conference at Camp Duncan

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Thirty Jewish and Polish teenagers will be sharing a combined heritage at a two-day conference at Camp Duncan YMCA.

"This is the first retreat of its kind. Camp Duncan is very supportive of our cause and is very team-building oriented," said Hope Egan, an Interfaith Coalition board member.

The sessions will begin with a full day of activities Dec. 2, from leaving Chicago to a stay-over at the Ingleside campsite. Dec. 3 is the second day, with more general sessions, and small groups. Egan said the weekend is patterned after the Snowball philosophy. Camp Duncan is located off Rte. 12 north of Rte. 120.

"We are very fortunate to have Lisa Dermon and Zophia Kuklo, a Polish woman who was rescued and a rescuer tell their stories. Father John Cusick and Rabbi Herman Schaalman will also speak, and they are highly sought-after speakers," Egan said.

Those being honored have previously been recognized by the Israeli government for their efforts during the Holocaust in Nazi-occupied Poland.

Goals of the weekend are to provide a quality learning experience about cultural and religious diversity and to establish commonalities between the two groups; to promote a greater understanding, and to enhance communication among teens from both groups; to develop openness and trust among teens from different ethnic groups with different cultural and socio-economic backgrounds.

The two days are divided into general sessions, small groups, challenge courses and workshops.

Speaker Chuck Meyers, Facing History and Ourselves, Imagination Theater, and cooperative games will also be offered.

Partners in the effort are Interfaith Coalition to Honor Polish Res-Northpointe Achievement Center in Zion held an open house to inform and educate the public about the services they provide.

The non-profit vocational and residential rehabilitation center has been providing services and programs for individuals with mental and physical disabilities since 1953.

Booths throughout the center displayed programs that are integral to the center's operation.

Northpointe has programs to train physically and mentally challenged individuals to work either on the premises of the center or to be outsourced to various businesses in the community.

In-house employees do assembly, collating and packaging work. There are currently about 185 people in the in-house program.

In-house work is seasonal but ongoing. Work is contracted from companies from Kenosha, Wis. to Morton Grove, Ill. Northpointe competes with the open market as well as four other local rehabilitation centers for these jobs.

The outsourcing program placed 100 people in jobs in 1999. North-pointe works with local companies to provide employees for work in mail services, utility clerks, shipping and receiving, among a few positions frequently filled.

Employees are trained at the center on all aspects of employment from dressing for an interview to dealing with teasing from co-workers on a job.

Counseling is offered to both the employee and employer to make the situation work.

YMCA Camp Duncan plans winter camp, other activities

Plan early for the holiday fun. Registration is now open for YMCA Camp Duncan's Winter Camp. Sledding, downhill skiing, games, ice skating, roller skating, tubing, crafts and indoor campfires are included on the list of activities planned for the YMCA's Annual Winter Camp, announced Rona Roffey, Camp Director of YMCA Camp Duncan.

"Dec. 27-30th marks the dates for the 24th annual Winter Camp for boys and girls 7-17 years old," Roffey said. Camp Duncan's Winter Camp has heated cabins, indoor plumbing, tasty nutritional meals and a huge lodge with a warm cozy fireplace. Winter Camp is held at YMCA Camp Duncan near Fox Lake. Rona Roffey directs a staff of trained college students and teachers, who supervise the campers at all times. "The same staff who made the summer program so successful at Camp Duncan, also direct and lead our Winter Camp," Roffey said.

"Children often get bored over the holidays, our winter camp is a fun alternative at a reasonable cost. Our safety record is excellent because the campers are well supervised by experienced staff," Roffey stated.

For more information, call Rona at 546-8086.

Kids day out program

YMCA Camp Duncan's Kids Day Out of school program offers children in Lake and McHenry Counties, ages 5-12, a safe and fun place to spend their days off of school.

Each scheduled Kids Day Out date provides a full day of quality camp programming under the direct supervision of highly qualified, participative, enthusiastic, caring and trained college-aged counselors. Each child's camp experience will include a variety of well planned and age appropriate activities such as sports and games, arts and crafts, camp songs, archery, outdoor education, adventure programs, and lots, lots more.

"As a full facility day and residential camp on 400 acres, our camp property lends itself to a variety of exciting indoor and outdoor activities; no other Kids Day Out day camp program in the area can offer the variety of programming or the convenient hours for such an affordable price," stated Colleen Foley, program director. The program begins each day at 8 a.m. and concludes at 4 p.m. Parents have the options of taking advantage of extended care from 7 a.m.-6 p.m. at no additional charge.

Kids Day Out programs are offered on all the dates listed below. Registration is now open. The cost for each day off is $24 per child for members of the YMCA and $29 for non-members. Parents may select one date or multiple dates to accommodate their schedules. Space is available and registrations are handled on a "first come, first served" basis. Once a particular date fills, waiting lists are established.

For complete program and registration information, call Colleen Foley at YMCA Camp Duncan at 546-8086 or stop in at YMCA Camp Duncan, 32405 N. Hwy. 12, Ingleside.

Local Scouts heard 'round the world

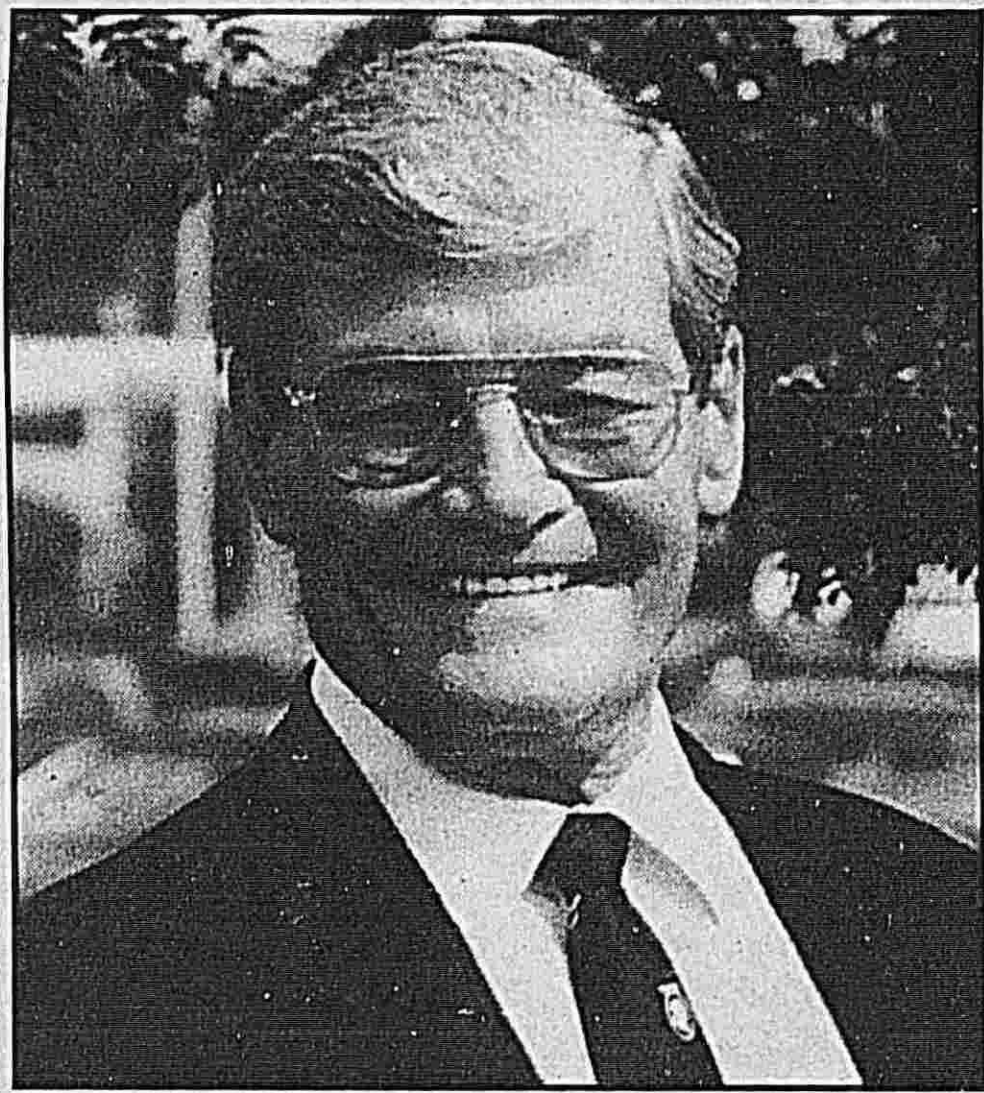

Over 250 Boys Scouts from the Northeast Illinois Council participated in an international ham radio event, "Jamboree on the Air," at the Van Patten Forest Preserve in Wadsworth. Scouts talked to other scouts as far away as Spain, Germany, Canada, and Australia. Members of the North Shore Radio Club provided amateur radio equipment and the coaching to enable scouts to participate in his annual world-wide event.

The "Jamboree on the Air" was held during a special district-wide camp out. The radio club set up five amateur radio base stations in tents and in a forest preserve shelter. Part of the experience was to see how quickly communications could be established as practice for a real emergency—but the true purpose of the day was just to have fun talking to other scouts all over the world.

"Jamboree on the Air" is sponsored by the American Radio Relay League, the official association for amateur radio, and the International division of the Boy Scouts of America. Last year over 500,000 scouts shared stories with others around the world thanks to the efforts of ham radio operators. According to the Jacob Fishman, president of the North Shore Radio Club, "This event introduces young people to this intriguing hobby and shows them that there are many ways to communicate to people around the world—without phone lines."

North Shore Radio participants were Tim McGuire, KB9QYL (Lake Forest), Jacob Fishman, KF9ZF (Northbrook), Greg Stehling, K4JYV (Buffalo Grove), Tom MacFadden, KB9WXJ (Glenview), Rob Orr, KB9RST (Glenview), Ken Miller, KW91, Zion. Scouts from Troop 156 who helped with the event were David MacFadden, Kevin Lescht and Peter Walton (all from Glenview).

CLC NOTES

Network Cabling Course

A fast-track course teaching in-demand network cabling skills will be offered by the College of Lake County from 6-10 p.m., Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, Nov. 27-Dec. 15, at the Grayslake Campus. CLC is a Certified Training Facility for this course, a designation granted by C-Tech Associates, Inc.

"Network Cabling—The Physical Layer" (computer ID 2750, VST 500-009) provides hands-on training in the skills needed to terminate, test and troubleshoot data, voice and video network wiring. The curriculum is written at a seventh grade reading level and incorporates problem-solving and critical thinking strategies. Students who earn a grade of 85 percent or better, based on criteria developed by C-Tech Associates, Inc., will receive C-Tech certification.

The class size is limited to 10 students. The tuition for the course is $108 and the student kit is $95. For more information on the program, contact Judy Waters at 543-2023.

Egg drop contest

The popular "Sunny Side Up Egg Drop Competition" will be conducted by the College of Lake County engineering students on Nov. 29. The contest, which will begin at 12:30 p.m. in the Brandel Court of the Grayslake Campus, is designed to give students an opportunity to demonstrate their creativity and engineering skills.

Contestants will be challenged to drop an egg from the second floor (about 20 feet down) of the Brandel Court without breaking the egg. The container holding the egg may be made from drinking straws, paper, rubber bands, pipe cleaners, string and glue. The lightest device that protects the egg from breaking will win the competition.

Three cash awards and other prizes will be presented to winners. The entry fee is $2, and the contestants will receive a grade A large egg before the contest. Although the contest is primarily designed for engineering students, anyone may participate. For information, call the engineering division at 543-2044.

Husband/wife team works

Paintings and bookworks by Dennis Bayuzick, professor of art at the University of Wisconsin-Parkside and his wife, Gabriela Pettit, a Kenosha art educator, will be on display through Dec. 16 in the Community Gallery of Art at the College of Lake County.

Bayuzick's work consists of abstract paintings that are derived from carefully arranged studio setups of diverse objects and props. Some of the paintings originated as still-life demonstrations or teaching examples for his classes and address compositional and technical issues involving space, color, design and brushwork. Pettit's work features collage images, personal photographs and drawings composed into warping flexible arrangements. Her bookwork consists of three-dimensional elements connected onto a painted surface.

The gallery hours are 8 p.m.-9 p.m. Monday through Friday, 9 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Saturday and 1-5 p.m. Sunday. The gallery will be closed Nov. 23-26. For information, call Steve Jones, exhibit coordinator, 543-2240.

Prairie Spirits Winter Concert

The Prairie Spirits Dance Troupe at the College of Lake County will present its winter concert at 7:30 p.m., Dec. 8 and 9 in the Studio Theatre at CLC's Grayslake Campus. Tickets are $5 for the general public, $4 for CLC students, alumni and seniors 65 and over, and free for children under 12.

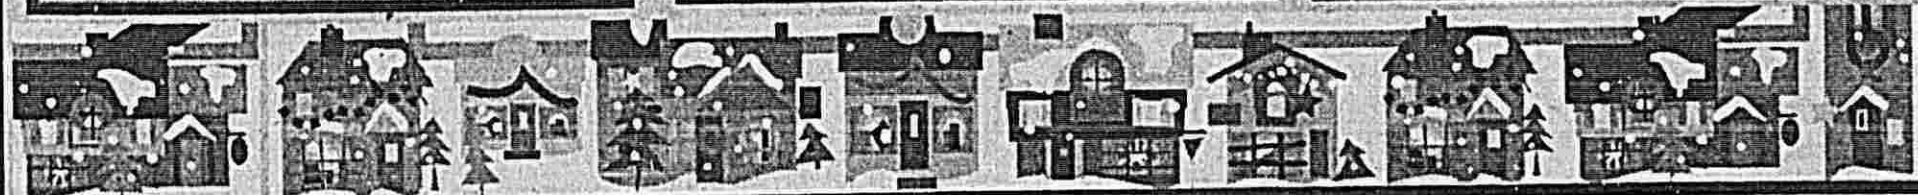

Titled "Images of Women," the program is witty, intense and passionate, noted Valerie Alpert, artistic director of Prairie Spirits. "The concert is a combination of dance and multimedia presentations that will capture the myth of the American beauty cultural phenomenon. Women's roles will be explored and contributions and how women are portrayed in mass media," Alpert said.

The 90 minute program will be presented by more than 25 artists, who are CLC students and community residents. A reception will be held following the Dec. 8 performance. For information and tickets call 543-2300. Visa, MasterCard, Discover and American Express are accepted.

Absentee ballots counted in Lake

A total of 18,557 absentee ballots were among the record 246,706 ballots cast in Lake County on Election Day Nov. 7. Considering the Florida fiasco involving absentee ballots, Lake County absentee voters should know that their ballots WERE counted.

In a two-step process, the procedure followed in Lake County is for electors who don't plan to vote in person to request an application in writing. Complying with any one of eight valid reasons enables an elector to get a ballot for absentee voting. The Lake County Clerk's office mailed out 19,896 absentee ballots. Obviously, some voters changed their mind.

The same punch card ballots that voters get on Election Day are used by absentee voters. Their ballot is returned to the County Clerk in a sealed envelope. Prior to Election Day, absentee ballots are sorted according to precinct and delivered to the polling site. After the polls close at 7 p.m., election judges open the absentee ballots and place them in the ballot box. As Lake County Director of Elections Colleen Conarchy emphasized, with this system absentee ballots are indistinguishable from ballots cast in person. Absentee ballots must be received by Election Day.

Under Illinois law, spoiled ballots are not counted. The state election code provides that "over votes"—more than one vote cast for the same office—are not counted. Conarchy reported there were 791 over-votes for President in Lake County this year. An election curiosity noted by the clerk's office is that 3,752 electors didn't vote for President. There were 154 over-votes in Lake County in the hotly contested 10th Dist. Congressional election. In the 8th Congressional Dist. where Congressman Phil Crane was re-elected, 57 people voted for both Crane and his opponent. Over-votes are not counted in the tally.

Absentee votes in Lake County are not dealt with cavalierly or dismissed as inconsequential. As County Clerk Willard Helander asserted, every vote gets counted in Lake County.

Swampy threat haunts Chain area

Geologists long have known that without man's intervention, the prize recreation area of the Chain O'Lakes will turn into a swamp.

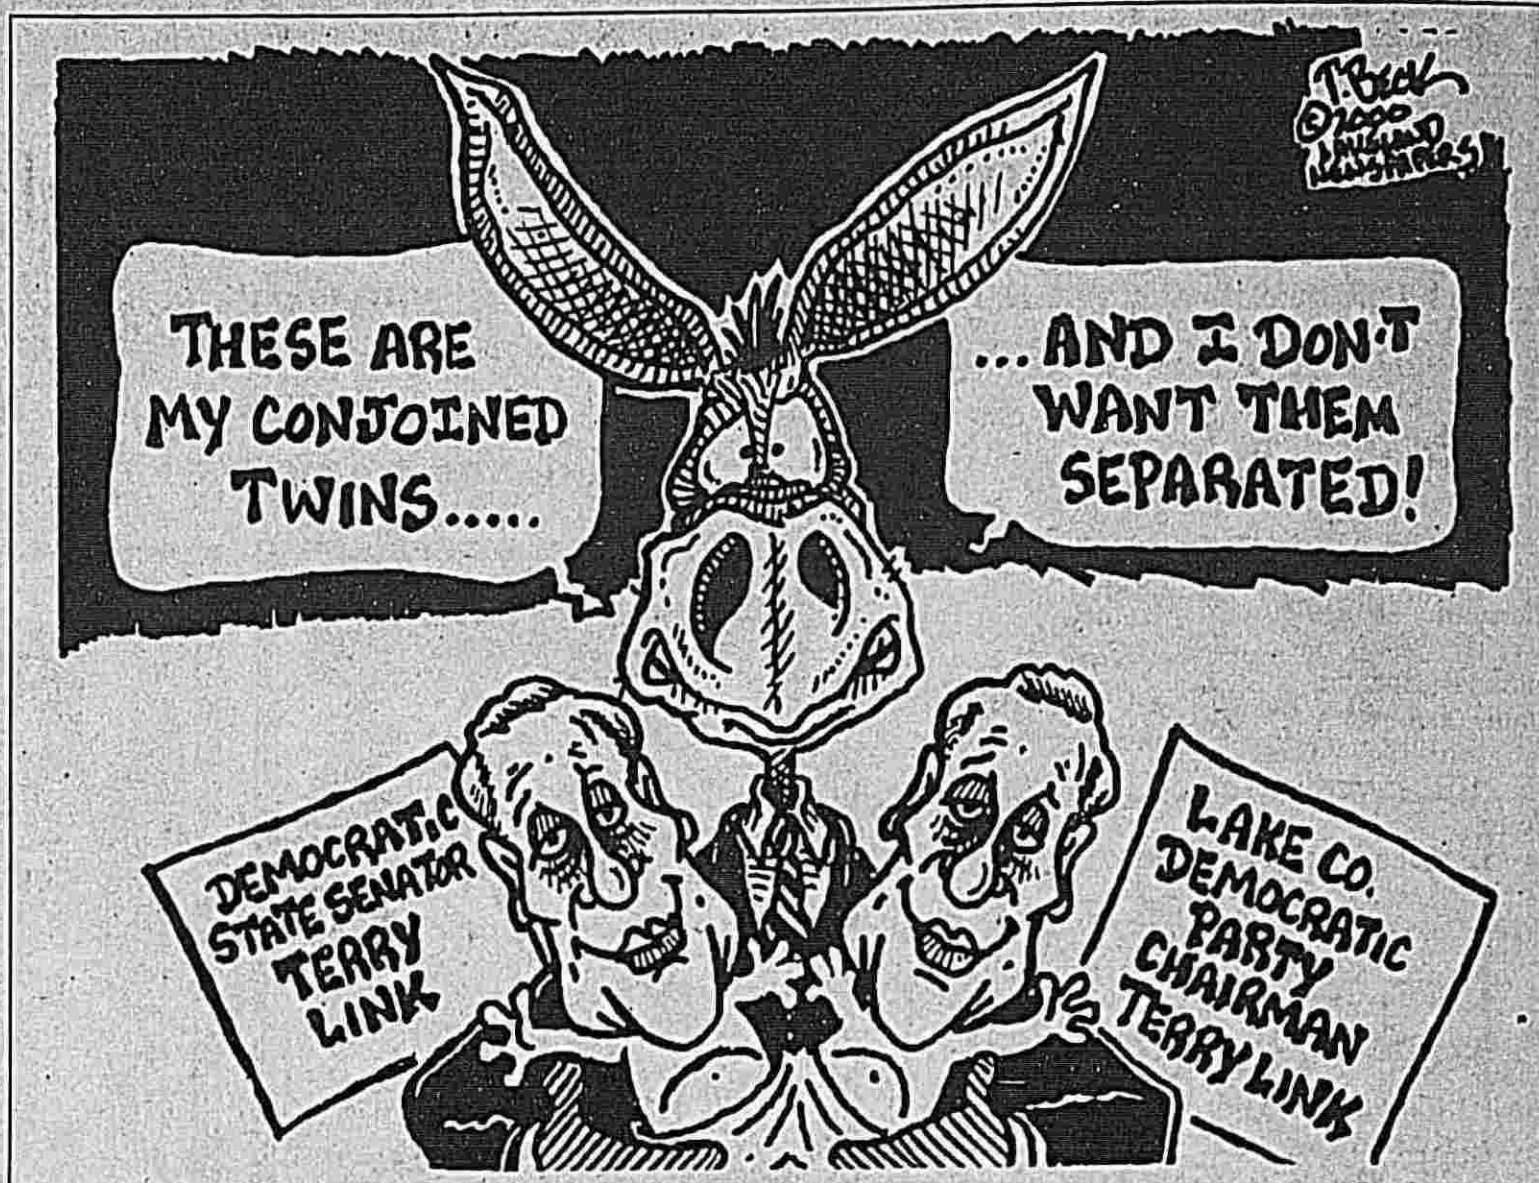

This inevitability was restated in an Illinois Dept. of Natural Resources study conducted in conjunction with the Fox Waterway Agency that took three years. As long ago as the 1930s, scientists established the fact that natural causes eventually would eliminate the Chain through a process known as eutrophication.

Acceptance of the evolutionary process led to state officials literally "writing off" the Chain O'Lakes for publically funded improvements. This attitude eventually spurred a movement 20 years ago to form a new unit of government charged with the responsibility of improving water quality and safety of the 64,000-acre body of water and adjacent natural wonderland.

The acknowledged success of the agency's dredging programs has established beyond a shadow of a doubt that intervention, indeed, can thwart nature's ways. Modern society can be thankful for intervention, the findings of science notwithstanding.

Periodic inquiries, though, provide new information on how nature works. The recent study found that sediment, once thought to settle in the Chain from river inflows, flows through the system. The study verified what boaters, fishermen and lake-front property owners already know: That seaweed growth fed by the constant influx of chemical nutrients is an ever-worsening problem.

Even with continued dredging improving the Chain O'Lakes, there still is much work to be done to improve and protect one of Lake County's prime natural resources.

VIEWPOINT

Sports violence put in spotlight

Before the holidays get too hectic, parents worried about violent athletics involving their children ought to circle Jan. 24, for an open forum at College of Lake County on promoting sportsmanship and how "win at all cost" attitudes are distorting youth sports.

More and more parents are having second thoughts about involving their sons and daughters in competitive sports that are aping the "blood and guts" of professional sports.

Shouting coaches. Punching. Pressure on winning. Tripping. Kneeing. High sticking. Irate parents. Angry fans. Crack blocking. Children sobbing instead of having fun. That's the picture of youth sports today.

Presented by Lake County Intouch, a partnership of CLC, Northern Illinois Council on Alcoholism and Substance Abuse and the Lake County Health Dept., the program promises to open eyes on parental responsibility, and how alcohol is impacting young athletes, besides how condoned violence is misshaping youth sports.

It's about time!

A panel of headliners will present personal views and lead discussions involving moms and dads. Panelists include Len Chimino, Warren High athletic director; Rico Ellis, Antioch High coach; Curt Gentry, CLC and former Chicago Bear; Mark Giangreco, WLS sports anchor; Rob Backus, Lakeland Media sports reporter; Lisa Foss, former Lake Zurich High and Northern Illinois University star; Tim Noonan, Antioch High student assistance coordinator; Steve Wapon, Antioch High coach, and Steve Endsley, Illinois Elementary School Assn. executive director.

John Phelps, Lakeland Media sports editor, and Pat Cameron, WKRS sports director, will serve as moderators.

Threats of injury and substance abuse are draining the fun out of youth sports. The purpose of the forum deserves the support of all interested people. There is no admission charge for the forum that begins at 6:30 p.m. at the CLC auditorium. We'll have more to comment on sports violence as the date approaches.

Hope alive

Jason Smith, acting hopeful now living in the Los Angeles area, was home for a weekend wedding. The Carmel High grad and former Libertyville resident is realistic about his future in show business. "There's about 4,000 guys available for jobs in films and television. It's still a long shot," Smith has had enough bit parts and involvement in commercial shots to keep hopes alive for that elusive big break. Meanwhile, the handsome and personable 30-year-old supports himself working in real estate.

Highway progress

Bill Govas of the Country Squire couldn't be happier that finishing touches are being put on the county's biggest highway project of the summer, the reconstruction of the intersection of Routes 45 and 120. Customers can get to the popular restaurant and banquet center without fighting construction equipment. Even though the project hurt business, Govas still supports progress. "I can remember when an eight-car backup on Rte. 120 was a traffic jam," he joked.

Ready for battle

Claude LeMere, Antioch economic director, calls the dividing line between Illinois and Wisconsin a "battleline" instead of the state line. He's mapping plans for Antioch industrial growth to lure businesses back to Illinois that have fled to Wisconsin.

Goodbye Chief?

Once the centerpiece of University of Illinois logo products, the Chief Illiniwek insignia in a new gift catalog is almost invisible. There's a Chief logo on a T-shirt and Illini inscribed on a chrome license plate frame. That's it for the Native American connection. Is this an indication of things to come? Last we heard, university officials are to decide the Chief's fate in March. Oh, orange and blue still are school colors.

One man's family

At this writing, plans for a family Thanksgiving feast are still up in the air. Nov. 23 is looming like an ambush. But we want to wish you and yours a bountiful holiday. Enjoy!

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Preservation to continue

Lake County voters said "yes" to one of the Lake County Forest Preserves' referenda on November's ballot. On behalf of the Lake County Forest Preserve Board of Commissioners, staff and volunteers, I'd like to say "thank you" for allowing us to continue to preserve open space and protect Lake County's quality of life. As elected officials, every day my fellow Commissioners and I hear your worries about increasing traffic congestion and the rate of growth in our communities. As Lake County residents, we share the same concerns. That's why we're so excited about your show of support—we've all won by passing this referendum.

Sixty-seven percent of voters supported a ballot issue, giving us an additional $70 million to preserve and protect more natural areas. This is great news, and timely, since our land acquisition funds are

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

Winner Leafblad rips 'sorry' GOP leaders

Instead of celebrating a re-election victory, County Board Rep. Larry Leafblad (R-Highland Lake) blistered what he considers the "sorry state of Republican leadership in Lake County."

Leafblad, who has been providing strong direction as chairman of the Building, Zoning and Planning Dept., said the GOP has to take stock of where it's going when it can't carry the county for Mark Kirk.

The feisty County Board veteran deplored the fact that Kirk lost Lake County to State Rep. Lauren Beth Gash (D-Highland Park) with 49 percent, but is going to Congress on the strength of his support in Cook County.

Leafblad called the erosion of Republican numbers along North Shore communities as "unthinkable and inexcusable."

Referring to central committee direction under party chairman John Schullen, who was re-elected to his County Board seat Nov. 7, Leafblad said the Republican leadership "is stuck in the Ozzie and Harriet days."

As representative of the Round Lake area and part of Grayslake, Leafblad voiced strong criticism of GOP leaders who look for jobs first and then consider party business. He targeted Ken Cabay of Barrington, who recently was appointed to the Illinois Tollway Authority, as a "stooge," and Ginnie Wood, long time GOP functionary from Lake Forest, who has a plumb position at North Pointe Marina, Zion. "Wood doesn't even know which end of the boat to launch," Leafblad fumed.

Early for Kirk

No one was more jubilant over Mark Kirk's narrow victory than Betty Lou Reed of Deerfield, a former Republican state representative who served a large area of south and west Lake County 30 years ago.

After retiring from active politics, Reed served as an aide in the Deerfield office of Congressman John Porter. She and Kirk were fellow staffers for the long-time popular congressman. More than a year ago, Reed encouraged Kirk to seek his one-time boss' seat. "Mark is someone you ought to know," was Reed's favorite gambit at GOP gatherings the past year.

Zion Mayor Lane Harrison had just as much fun as more than 1,300 children attending the second annual Mayor's Safe Halloween Walk sponsored by Sheridan Health Care Center and the city.

Better service

Quietly, County Building Officer Phil Rovang has instituted an intensive training program for employees in his department. Now starting his second year on the job, Rovang is aware of public dissatisfaction with the way building, zoning and planning affairs have been handled in the past. Part of his effort involves informing grassroots leaders of his desire to "better serve the public" as a letter, stated.

Stepping down

Antioch trustee Ron Cunningham, one of the longest serving village officials in Lake County, won't be on the ballot for re-election next spring. He has decided to step down after more than 20 years of service.

Cunningham had become a rarity in municipal government, a local businessman serving in local government. Cunningham has a background in trucking.

Cunningham: Trustee will step down after 20 years of service.

Sought after

Newly elected County Board Rep. Brent Paxton (R-Zion) immediately has become "sought after." That's because the chairmanship sweepstakes is taking shape. As a newcomer, Paxton hasn't any known allegiances. In the campaign, he mainly talked about restoring Zion's tax base with the closing of ComEd's nuclear power station. Paxton defeated Democrat Ronald Mollnaro III of Winthrop Harbor.

Doppelganger?

On election night, while waiting for the ultimately positive results of the Lake Villa Community Consolidated School Dist. 41 new building referendum, one of the assembled members of the school board noted that Thompson Elementary School Principal Jeff Marcus bears an amazing resemblance to U.S. presidential candidate Al Gore. Should the decision go to Bush, perhaps the unemployed Gore can find a spot as an elementary school principal stunt-double.

AT A GLANCE

A DIGEST OF STORIES MAKING HEADLINES THROUGHOUT OUR REGION

Library seeks recount, starts cuts

Wauconda—Wauconda Area Public Library is proceeding with service cutbacks and a recount effort in light of a narrow referendum defeat at the polls.

The library board officially canvassed results of the election Nov. 7. The library was seeking an increase in operating tax fund increase. Voters opposed the measure by a margin of 18 votes.

"We will be pursuing a recount. We will be petitioning the Lake County Clerk for a recount in two precincts. If any wrongdoing is found, the whole Lake County vote (for the two county district) will be recounted," said Tom Kern, library director.

TIF suit dissolves

Mundelein—Mundelein High School Dist. 120 Board of Education members received good news from the proceedings of a lawsuit over a tax increment financing (TIF) district set up within district boundaries.

Board President Thomas Hannigan received a copy of a motion filed by LaSalle National Bank made it clear that neither LaSalle nor the Alter Group were interested in going forward with the Round Lake Beach project.

Hannigan explained that a TIF district can only be enforced if there is a development contract that spells out the specific details of the project. Since the developers are not going to proceed, the contract is null and the TIF is apparently gone. The TIF would have cost the district an estimated $25 million in lost tax revenues.

Dist. 116 loses grant

Round Lake—The Round Lake Area School Dist. 116 has lost its Safe to Learn Demo Project Illinois Violence Prevention Authority (IVPA) grant.

The loss of the grant affects not only the school district, but also the Round Lake communities because of its far-reaching violence prevention agenda.

The three-year grant was part of a unique IVPA school-based violence prevention demonstration and evaluation project. The Round Lake Schools had been one of only three districts selected for the demo-project grant.

Sex offender sues over residency law

Gurnee—A Gurnee man is challenging the constitutionality of a state law that limits registered sex offenders from living close to schools and parks.

In the suit, Ronald C. Schreff, 50, argues that he had made a $6,000 deposit on a house near Spaulding School prior to the law being enacted. Sex offenders who already lived within 500 feet the specified areas before the law was enacted were allowed to remain in their homes.

Subjects crash after theft

Antioch—Chicago residents James Coleman, 39, and his passenger Janice Johnson, 28, are suspected of shoplifting $1,950 worth of merchandise, including a self-blood-testing machine from the Antioch Walgreen's.

While leaving the scene, the subjects saw an Antioch Police officer on foot and sped away in a Chevrolet Blazer. Police later responded to an accident at the intersection of Rte. 173 and Deep Lake Rd. and realized it was the same vehicle involved in the crime.

The merchandise was recovered from the Blazer at the accident scene.

Woman terrorized by hunters

Lake Villa—A resident in an unincorporated area of Lake Villa Township was frightened by hunters on her property, demanding access to search for a deer wounded by their arrows.

Martha Kazak, who does not permit hunting on her two properties, said, "I felt intimidated. They had weapons (high-powered bows and rifles) with them."

Deputy Sheriff John Krempotic, who responded to Kazak's complaint, stated that the hunters may have been in violation of a statute that prohibits hunting within 300 feet of any building.

The incident remains under investigation.

Old newspapers become treasures

Headlines from some very old newspapers:

1906—Doctor in Round Lake makes daring leap to rescue young woman in buggy from ruffian.

1910—Ghost visits Zion City. Religious fanatic tells of two attacks by an unearthly assailant.

1927—Gene Tunney, heavyweight boxing champion, will arrive Friday at Cedar Crest Country Club on Fox Lake. Thousands in the Lake Region will watch him in workouts.

Those headlines were from almost ancient issues of the Antioch News, founded by a man named J.J. Burke in 1887 as a small handbill printed on colored paper. Through the years the publication evolved as a vital part of community life and is now one of our 11 hometown Lakeland Newspapers.

The old papers I am quoting from had been saved by an elderly neighbor lady who passed away recently. Her family knew I'd be interested in reading them.

THE PFARR CORNER

I sure am. Old newspapers captured the way we were, and especially the way our ancestors were. Like my neighbor lady, I find them too precious to throw out.

The doctor who rescued a young Chicago woman from the "ruffian" was E.A. Crane. He heard her screams for help, quickly hitched up a horse, overtook the ruffian and, according to the article, "leaped from his own buggy to the other, grasping the lines and pulling the horse to its haunches. Dr. Crane lectured the fellow and took the young lady to Gardiner's hotel where she stayed for the night. In coming to her rescue, Dr. Crane is quite the hero of the day at the resorts."

In Zion, in 1910, a night watchman said he was walking through the plant when a ghost seized hold of his neck and choked him, not just once but two nights in a row. He said the ghost was a white specter, "a regular ghost." He suspects it is the departed spirit of some opponent in religious beliefs that has come back to earth to attack him.

In August of 1927, heavyweight champion Gene Tunney came to the Lake Villa area to train for his September fight with Jack Dempsey in Chicago. Tunney won the title from Dempsey in Philadelphia a year earlier and won again in Chicago despite the infamous "long count" he received when knocked down in the seventh round. He retired from the ring a year later.

Tunney was handsome and intellectually inclined for a boxer and therefore quite an attraction when he came here to train.

The newspapers of almost a century ago also were full of short gossip items known as social notes. Such as:

The Misses Graves of Trevor visited their brother in Antioch Saturday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Osmond returned from their wedding trip north last week and gave a very pleasant reception to a number of their friends at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J.C. James.

Allen Rogers' granddaughter, Frances Demick, has been quite sick with diphtheria and is still in a critical condition. Dr. Ames is attending her.

Born to ye editor and wife, Feb. 27, 1892, a boy baby. All are doing well, especially the editor.

So for more than a century this has been a newspaper carrying out its missions, one of which is alerting readers to possible dangers.

Like, if you have to be in Zion, look out for the ghosts.

depleted. It is so important for us to continue our efforts while the land is available and affordable. Thank you for making that possible.

An additional $15 million is provided for restoration and improvement projects. With it, we'll accomplish great things. We'll complete the Des Plaines River Trail and we'll complete two-thirds of our planned Millennium Trail, connecting western Lake County to a 100-mile regional network of trails. We'll renovate the popular Ryerson Woods educational facilities, providing more classroom and exhibit space. We'll also restore habitat at a dozen Preserves countywide.

A majority of voters this election didn't support the second Forest Preserve referendum question that would have given us the funds needed to keep our Preserves safe, clean and open for all to enjoy. Serving more visitors each year and opening any new facilities and trails will stretch our limited public safety, maintenance and operations dollars to the limit. To meet this challenge, the Forest Preserve Board of Commissioners and staff may need to consider delaying the opening of newly purchased preserves and increasing fees, reducing services or deferring maintenance.

Your continued support shows that preserving the quality of life we enjoy as Lake County residents is still very important to you—just as it is to the Forest Preserve Board, staff and volunteers. Thank you for helping us to preserve and protect it for you and for future generations.

High demand at Gregg's Landing means rapid sales for royal troon

Royal Troon is 30 percent sold after little more than three months of sales. The community of 62 single-family homes, is located within Gregg's Landing, a master-planned development in north-suburban Vernon Hills. Buffalo Grove-based Zale Homes is the developer.

Royal Troon offers seven two-story floor plans. The homes are based on designs from Muirfield Village, another Zale Homes community at Gregg's Landing, which is sold out. Floor plans range in size from 2,689 to 3,692 square feet and include four to five bedrooms, 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 baths and attached two- to three-car garages. Base prices range from $380,900 to $444,900.

"Demand is so high at Gregg's Landing that as soon as one community sells-out, another opens. Sales at Royal Troon are well ahead of schedule and should be completed before construction even begins in January 2001," said Leon Joffe, president of Zale Homes.

One of the more popular floor plans offered at Royal Troon is the Carrington, which has 3,253 square feet and is base-priced at $423,900. The home has four bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths, a full basement and attached three-car garage.

The first floor features separate living and dining rooms, a family room, gourmet kitchen with pantry and breakfast room, den and utility room. Both the foyer and living room have two-story ceilings, and nine-foot ceilings are standard on the rest of the first floor. Neo-classical columns separate the living room and the dining room, defining each space while maintaining a sense of openness.

Upstairs, the master suite features two walk-in closets and a master bath with two vanities, corner soaker tub, separate shower, and private water closet. A full bath and three bedrooms with double-door closets complete the second floor.

"The luxury touches in the carrington create a very dramatic effect," said Joffe. "Plant shelves, two-story ceilings and a dual staircase are just a few elements that contribute to the Carrington's charm."

The Carrington also offers options such as fireplaces or fireplace/entertainment centers in the family room and master bedroom, an additional bedroom instead of the den, a loft or master suite sitting room in place of a guest bedroom, an extended kitchen and a full bath on the first floor.

Kitchens at Royal Troon include preparation islands, furniture-quality cabinets and Kohler double-bowl sinks with Moen single-lever faucet controls. Appliances include gas ranges with sealed burners and standard ovens, spacemaker microwaves with vented exhaust, four-cycle dishwashers and garbage disposals.

Buyers may opt for additional appliances such as a refrigerator, washing machine, dryer and freezer. Upgrades range from granite countertops to Crystal cabinets.

Master baths feature cultured-marble vanity countertops, linen closets and chrome Moen faucets. Master suite options include whirlpool tubs, volume ceilings, skylights and plant shelves, per plan.

"Besides offering buyers extraordinary interiors at Royal Troon, we also wanted to present them with a beautiful setting," said Joffe. "Royal Troon is in one of the most coveted locations at Gregg's Landing."

Located in the northwest corner of Gregg's Landing, Royal Troon is separated from other communities within the master-planned development by a creek. The development links the bike path of Gregg's Landing to the bike paths of the Libertyville Park District. The park at Royal Troon will feature two soccer fields and three to four baseball diamonds.

The Royal Troon community is near the championship White Deer Run Golf Course. Designed by world-renowned golf course architect Dick Nugent, the 18-hole course sits on 240 acres of rolling terrain within Gregg's Landing.

Residents at Royal Troon can also enjoy 40-acre Charles, 15-acre Harvey Lake, bicycle paths and more than 360 acres of scenic open space, ponds and nature preserves.

Children attend Hawthorn Primary and Intermediate Schools, both of which have received state and national recognition for excellence in education. High school students attend Libertyville High School or Vernon Hills High School.

Royal Troon is also centrally located to metro train service in Vernon Hills and Libertyville, as well as Interstate 94/294. The public library, medical facilities, theatres, restaurants and Hawthorn Mall are all close to the community.

Sales for Royal Troon are being conducted out of the Muirfield Village sales center. To visit the four decorated models and sales center, take I-94/294 north to Town Line Road, head west to Butterfield Road, turn right onto Gregg's Parkway, and right on Sycamore Street to the sales center. Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily. For more information, or to make an appointment, call 362-1661. Take a tour of Royal Troon's virtual models by visiting Zale Homes online at www.zalehomes.com.

Building homes since 1951, Zale Homes has created numerous successful communities in the Chicago area and Midwest. The Chicago Sun-Times ranked Zale Homes one of the top 25 builders in the Chicago area for 1999.

College scholarships available for students in real estate curricula

The Lake County Association of Realtors® announces the availability of scholarships through the Illinois Real Estate Educational Foundation of the Illinois Association of Realtors®. Application forms may be obtained at the financial aid office of Illinois colleges and universities, the Lake County Association of Realtors®, 19625 W. Grand Ave., Post Office Box 1260, Lake Villa, IL 60046, 356-3113 or by contacting the Illinois Association of Realtors® at 3180 Adloff Ln., Post Office Box 19451, Springfield, IL 62794-9451, (217) 529-2600 or on our web site, <http://www.illinoisrealtor.org>.

The Foundation awards numerous scholarships each year. Applications must be completed and submitted by April 1, along with course transcripts and letters of recommendation.

Applications are currently being accepted for the Academic Scholarships, awarded to select Illinois students attending a higher education institution within Illinois. These scholarships, valued at not less than $1,000, are awarded to encourage Illinois students to further their interests in selecting real estate as a career.

Scholarships of $2,000 or more are available for the Morgan Fitch Fund for Illinois residents who are juniors, seniors, or graduate students in real estate studies at the University of Illinois College of Commerce and Business Administration of College of Liberal Arts and Sciences at the Champaign-Urbana campus. The Fitch Fund was established in memory of Chicago real estate broker Morgan L. Fitch, who served as president of the Chicago Board of Realtors® and the Illinois and National Associations of Realtors®.

Other scholarships of $2,000 or more are available from the Thomas F. Seay Fund, established by Chicago Board of Realtors® past President Thomas F. Seay. Eligibility is limited to Illinois residents who are students in real estate studies at any accredited college or university in the United States.

All requirements and instructions are contained in the application forms. The scholarships may not be applied to courses required by the State of Illinois for obtaining a license as a real estate broker or salesperson.

The Foundation provides funding and other support for research and studies of real estate subjects in Illinois. A special grant from the Foundation originally established the Office of Real Estate Research at the University of Illinois.

Holidays don't have to put a chill on home sales

About the time of year when Chicagoans realize winter's arrival is imminent, homeowners usually table the idea of selling their house until after the New Year. But some of these sellers might be missing a golden marketing opportunity.

Despite beliefs to the contrary, the holidays can be a very good time of the year to sell a home, according to several real estate agents with the Mid-American region of Keller Williams Realty.

"The agents who tell homeowners they shouldn't sell during the holidays are the same agents who take their vacation during the holidays," says Curt Miller and Cathy Welsch of Keller Williams Stateline in Antioch. "But serious buyers and sellers aren't on vacation, and there's a lot of business to be conducted in November and December."

Less competition, an influx of transferee homebuyers and old-fashioned holiday cheer are factors that contribute to a healthy wintertime market, experts say.

According to Susan Kube, a realtor® with Keller Williams Stateline, the misconception that buyers stop looking between November and January does scare many sellers out of the market. But Kube says this actually creates an advantage for those sellers who do list their homes.

"Usually, there are fewer homes on the market during the holiday season, so sellers have less competition," she says.

This circumstance works concurrently with another one to aid sellers: homebuyers who look during the holidays are highly motivated.

"People who go out in the cold and snow to attend showings and open houses are not tire-kickers," Kube says. "With all the preparations people need to make for the holidays — shopping, cooking, parties — no one is going to spend evenings and weekends looking at homes unless they're serious about buying one."

Another reason the marketplace tends to bring out earnest buyers at this time of year is that the holidays bring an influx of corporate transferees and relocation buyers, according to Jeff Lang, also of Keller Williams Stateline.

"Transferees with school-age children prefer to move during school vacation so kids won't miss class and have to enter a new school at mid term," Lang says.

In addition to market conditions, the festive atmosphere of the holidays can aid the successful marketing of a home. Sellers should take advantage of the opportunities the season presents, and show their homes in a way that appeals to potential buyers' holiday spirit, agents say.

"The warmth of holiday decorating makes a house a home," says Loree Novak, an agent with Keller Williams Realty/New Horizons of Illinois in Naperville. "Sellers should definitely decorate, inside and out. However, they should make sure the decorations do not clutter the home and are neutral. Remember, the idea is to sell the home, not the decorations."

"Put lights around the For Sale sign in the front yard," says Kube. "But don't go overboard like Chevy Chase in Christmas Vacation."

Novak also recommends baking a batch of holiday cookies prior to showings and leaving them out for potential buyers and their agents. Having a fire burning in the fireplace is another nice touch, she says.

Still, keeping a home in showing condition is challenging during the holidays, especially if sellers are preparing to host a large gathering. Novak advises clients to ask relatives or friends to host holiday festivities while the seller's home is on the market.

Also, despite the cold weather and holiday preparations, Kube stresses the importance of leaving the home during showings. "Sellers should not be present for showings at any time of the year. Buyers need to feel comfortable and not rushed. Let them enjoy the warmth of the home during the holidays and picture themselves celebrating with their friends and family," she says.

Finally, how quickly should sellers expect to sell their homes during the holidays and for how much?

"Price competitively. Negotiate wisely," says Kube. "There are fewer buyers in the market, but there is no need to under-price. Buyers will respond to realistic pricing that can be supported with comps."

Kube also cautions against listing a home at a high price during the holidays "just to see what happens."

"The first 30 days that any home is on the market are critical. Therefore, pricing is important at any time of the year," she says.

As far as market time (the number of days the home is on the market before it goes under contract), Novak says, "Expect that it will take longer to sell the home, plan for it and prepare to be pleasantly surprised when the home sells quickly."

To demonstrate how quickly a home can sell in the thick of the holiday season, Novak recalls a home she listed the day after Christmas. It sold before New Year's.

Re/Max of Northern Illinois reports record sales for September and first nine months

Re/Max of Northern Illinois reports that it achieved a record level of sales, primarily residential properties, in September and through the first nine months of 2000. The 121-office network achieved September sales of $910 million, up 5.38 percent from the total reached in the same month last year.

For the first nine months of 2000, the network had total sales of $8.45 billion, an increase of 4.8 percent over the comparable 1999 period. Residential sales accounted for approximately 97 percent of that total.

"The residential marketplace continues to exhibit amazing strength in the Chicago area and across Northern Illinois," said Betty Hegner, president and co-founder of Re/Max of Northern Illinois, Inc. "We've seen the stock market move down from its highs and we've heard talk of a slowing economy, but the housing market continues to be a bright spot. Many buyers view their homes as a safe investment, not subject to the extreme volatility that has buffeted the financial markets this year."

Hegner believes the Re/Max of Northern Illinois network is well positioned to achieve a new annual record for sales volume, breaking the mark of $10.2 billion set last year.

The average transaction closed by Re/Max through the first nine months of 2000 had a value of $186,845 up 6.4 percent from the average transaction recorded over the same period last year. The trend was even more pronounced in September when the average Re/Max transaction hit $189,881, up 9.2 percent from the same month in 1999.

The Re/Max network also reported that its volume of new listings rose again in September, gaining 9.1 percent compared to the same month last year. For the year to date, listing volume was up 8.4 percent through September compared to the first months of 1999.

Re/Max offices in Northern Illinois lead the Chicago metropolitan area in properties sold. In 1999, closed sales volume totaled more than $10.2 billion. Since 1995, one out of four homes sold in Chicagoland was listed by Re/Max.

The Re/Max of Northern Illinois region consists of more than 2,700 associates providing residential, relocation and commercial real estate services through 121 individually owned and operated offices throughout the northern one-fourth of Illinois. The Northern Illinois region is part of the Re/Max international network, with 62,000 associates operating from more than 3,600 independently owned and operated full-service real estate offices in 35 nations and eight territories on six continents.

ON MORTGAGES

by Gary S. Meyers

While technology is moving faster than the vote count in Florida, it is equally clear that the founding fathers were nothing short of brilliant in designing our political system.

As flawed as the system appears to be today, it really works. In other countries the "chaos" of this week's vote would have brought the government to a standstill and could have sparked a revolution, with real shooting and bomb throwing. It happens all of the time throughout the world, but not here.

This is why the US is considered the safe haven for investment and where just about everybody in the world wants to live.

"People have said of capitalism and democracy, that they are flawed," said Robert Genetski, chief economist for Chicago Capital Corp. "Quoting Winston Churchill) 'They are the worst systems, except that they are better than every other alternative.' Despite, the electoral questions, our economy is still solid and will remain so no matter who comes into the presidency or how," said Genetski.

"The stock market for the last two weeks was starting to build a Bush victory," said Paul Kasriel, chief economist for the Northern Trust Bank. "It is clear from this election that no matter who winds up in the White House that no one is going to have a clear mandate to change anything radically."

"Especially in the Senate, the more moderate members on both sides of the aisle are going to dictate any changes going forward," Kasriel. "Despite all the craziness, people are not worried about leaving their homes, or finding food in the supermarkets. The rule of law will prevail. And, that is what separates this country and this economy from many others. We have a well developed and culturally accepted legal system."

"Clearly, with the House and Senate almost equally divided, once the presidency is decided, the whole political focus in Washington will be on the 2002 election. This dead heat in Congress will push Republican policy to the center," said Carol Brookins, a Washington, D.C. consultant on trade, the economy and public policy. "It will mean more spending on education and social programs, it will reduce the prospect for substantial tax cuts, and the Democrats probably will be pushed further left to bring in the Nader votes and to pay back organized labor."

"The markets are in no danger of collapsing. In fact there exists extremely good value at this level," said Mark Casolo, director of corporate finance at McGinn, Smith & Company, Inc., an eastern investment and brokerage firm. "On a sector basis, there will be some shift, such as the pharmaceutical industry, that will be effected by the specific policy stances of the candidates. However, longer term the health of the stock market is governed and predicated on the general health of the economy which continues to exhibit reasonable rates of growth and only limited signs of inflation."

Many wise men and women have said that the greatest protection for democracy is a constant fear of losing it.

Brookins cautioned, "I think that our political system operates effectively under the rule of law. However, if the ethics of the new media and today's spinmasters and pollsters, do not improve, they could seriously undermine the credibility of our political process and ultimately the rule of law."

So, while the country is strong, the economy is strong and our laws are strong, the only thing we really have to fear is if our leaders forsake morality or ever think that the ends justify the means.

Cleaning up water pollution - the natural way

Many people enjoy leisurely strolls around the neighborhood pond or lake, but many would also think twice about venturing into the water. While these bodies of water are naturally and aesthetically pleasing, society has made a bad habit of polluting the very waters from which we take so much enjoyment.

Local ponds and lakes have become easy and seemingly invisible storage areas for pollutants, and until recently have gone unseen by residents. While the growth of algae and weeds in ponds and lakes is normal, man-made pollutants are causing these weeds to grow at an alarming rate, covering water with a thick, green blanket of scum.

The pollutants encouraging this weed growth are comprised of fertilizer and sewage runoff and other man-made products. Cities have seen little success in trying to eliminate the overgrown weeds because these pollution sources are constantly available to the weeds. Some cities have tried to address algae coverage and pollution using traditional herbicides, but these man-made herbicides end up replacing the lakes weeds with toxins that contaminate the water and the aquatic life in it.

This is one of the reasons Miles and his company have spent years developing products that will improve the water quality of ponds and lakes, while refraining from causing harm or disruption to the life forms in them. Greener Pastures, based in St. Paul-Minn., has developed two organic products that specifically address weed and pollution problems in lakes and ponds. Clarify and Natures Weed Control, formulas researched and developed by the company, work together to rid water of pollutants that cause excess algae.

Aptly named Clarify, this product is a biological compound that provides the first step to cleaning algae overgrowth. The difference between Clarify and other herbicides is that it is comprised of naturally occurring micro-organisms that slowly consume fertilizer runoff, sludge, fecal material and other pollutants.

Once this occurs, Greener Pastures follows up the treatment with step two, Natures Weed Control. After years of research in both lab and field settings, the company has found the product comprised of 100 percent natural plant extract derived from agricultural crops to be non-toxic and to effect only plants that are not a part of the grass family. This includes Algae, Duckweed and Milfoil. "Natures Weed Control has the ability to rid lake and pond areas of excess weeds in an attempt to open bays and shorelines to boating, fishing and swimming," said Miles.

That's exactly what Park and Recreation Director for the city of Eden Prairie-Minn., Bob Lambert, is hoping. For the past five out of six years, Lambert has been forced to close the beach area on Round Lake at some point during the summer, due to the lakes poor water quality. "The excessive algae makes it impossible for life guards to safely observe the water, which has become unswimmable at this point," Lambert explained. The city has tested Clarify on ponds at its water treatment center and observed results unlike any other product they've tried. "If this product works on Round Lake, it will be wonderful in terms of quality of water and recreation," said Lambert.

Upon approval from the Department of Natural Resources, Clarify and Natures Weed Control could lend a much-needed hand in depleting water pollution. Backyard ponds, city lakes and someday even massive riverway systems may see astounding results, and the users of those water sources might just be tempted to wade into the waters once again.

Sports Digest

Prairie State Games, Illinois largest amateur sports festival, is accepting applications for the Dec. 16 and 17 Girls Holiday Hoops tournament to be held in the greater Fairview Heights and Belleville area in southwestern Illinois.

The PSG Girls Holiday Hoops is geared toward girls competitive teams in grades five-eight. Each of the four divisions will be limited to 12 teams. The tournament is open to teams from Illinois and its surrounding states. Last year's tournament featured a full field of 48 teams from Illinois, Iowa, Indiana and Missouri.

The fee is $150, with three games guaranteed. Each team has the option of pre-ordering T-shirts at $5 per shirt. The deadline to enter is Dec. 1. A late fee of $25 will be added to the $150 regular fee if an application is received after Dec. 1.

The Eliminators Basketball Club is co-hosting the tournament along with the Prairie State Games.

For further information or to receive an application, contact Phil Donato or Bob Emig at the Prairie State Games office in Fairview Heights at (618) 632-1002.

News and notes

The Barat College men's basketball team has joined forces with the Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Lake County. This relationship will enhance each player's mentoring and role-model skills, as well as allow communication and leadership with others. Big Brothers and Big Sisters will transport three sixth-eighth grade students to Barat home games. These "Littles" will help set up chairs, pass out water, and help out when needed. After weekend home games, Barat basketball players will take the "Littles" out for pizza and provide support and leadership. It is hoped that this relationship will be strong, long lasting and mutually beneficial.

Northwestern-based racing team to run nationally

Go Wildcat! No, that was not a misspelling of Wildcats. However, it is connected with Northwestern University in Evanston.

While attending the thrilling last second Wildcat victory over Michigan, the Northwestern Wildcat was spotted outside the southeastern corner of the stadium.

A closer look revealed a 1999 Chevy Monte Carlo, completely outfitted in the traditional Northwestern purple and black, with the N/Cat logo sporting the hood.

In speaking with the car owner, and driver, Jesse Havens, it was revealed the car would be campaigned on the American Speed Association (ASA) circuit in 2001. Plans are to run the entire series, which opens in

LET'S GO RACING

Michael H. Babicz

February in Florida and concludes in September in Indiana.

The car has been designed, built and will be maintained through Northwestern's Advanced Product Development Center which is located on the Evanston campus.

In looking at race cars, whether it is an asphalt late model, CART Championship Car or Winston Cup car, or dirt track sprint car, physics plays a major role in how the car makes its way around the track or course.

For years, car owners and builders like Roger Penske, Junior Johnson and others, were often thought of more as grease monkeys rather than detail minded engineers.

As motorsports moves into the 21st Century and beyond, it is great to see more and more movement into the world of "higher academics."

Ironically, at the same time Northwestern goes into ASA racing, Lincoln Tech has basically closed up its racing shop which was mostly a traveling running show car which was used to explain to shop classes how a student could take an interest in racing and develop it into a career.

Hopefully the Northwestern Wildcat will signal the beginning of a new movement to combine motorsports and education.

Maybe we will see an all "Big 10" field some day, similar to IROC.

Until next time, "Let's Go Racing!"

Pepsi Cola Volleyball Classic Nov. 18-19

The Eastside Volleyball Club, based in East Peoria hosted the second annual Pepsi Cola Illinois High School Girls Volleyball Classic, that will be held on Nov. 18-19. This showcase event will feature 225 of the best senior athletes throughout the State of Illinois on 17 teams and 35 of the best coaches throughout Illinois. Final team rosters for the "Classic" can be found on the Eastside Volleyball Club website at www.eastsidevb.com. The event will be played at its entirety at Eastside Centre; 1 Eastside Dr., East Peoria, IL 61611. Eastside Centre is $20 million facility that sits on a bluff in East Peoria, and is the home of the Eastside Volleyball Club. Further information and maps for the facilities can be found at www.eastside-centre.com.

The event will kick off on Nov. 18 during open practice sessions at Eastside Centre and East Peoria community High School. Practice and game schedules can be found at the Eastside Volleyball Club website at www.eastsidevb.com. A banquet will be held Nov. 18 evening to honor the athletes and feature the keynote speaker, Jenna Wrobel from the United States Professional Volleyball League in April 2000 to play with the elite corps of athletes chosen to introduce women's professional indoor volleyball to the United States. Prior to joining the USPV, she was playing with the USA women's National Volleyball Team. The classic will conclude on Nov. 19 when each team will be called upon to participate in three matches.

For college programs interested, the event team will be creating packets for each player to be given out at the practice on Nov. 18 comprised of recruiting information, college information, giveaways, etc. Information for the packets must be received by Nov. 13 and can be sent to Eastside Volleyball Club; 1621 Highview Rd., East Peoria, IL 61611.

Tickets for the event and/or banquet can be requested through e-mail at Eastside_vbc@yahoo.com or by calling Eastside Volleyball Club at (309) 699-8738. The cost for admission to the event is $6 and banquet tickets are $12. Complimentary press passes and passes for collegiate programs and High school programs for the event can be requested through e-mail at Eastside_VBC@yahoo.com with the number of passes and names to go with them. These passes may be picked up the day of the event and will require a business card to put on our visitors bulletin board.

Housing for the event will be handled by The East Peoria Department of Tourism at (800) 365-3743, or pertinent housing information and special rate information can be found at the Eastside Volleyball Club website at www.eastsidevb.com.

Finally, recruiting packets encompassing each player will be developed for collegiate programs and issued the day of the event provided the packets are requested via e-mail. The Eastside Volleyball Club is also proud to report that Adidas will be the official uniform for the event, Mikasa the official ball of the event, and Pepsi Cola the official drink. For additional questions and/or concerns, feel free to e-mail at Eastside_VBC@yahoo.com, or call at (309) 699-8738.

COLLEGE SPORTS BEAT

Three local Carmel graduates, Joshua Boller (Old Mill Creek), Ramsey Lama (Round Lake Beach), and Tom Faul (Lake Zurich) are off to Albuquerque, New Mexico to play in the NAIA National Soccer Championships.

All three freshman starters were on the conference and regional winning Aquinas College men's soccer team. Saturday's 4-1 win over last year's defending regional champion Bethel brings Aquinas record to 19-2-3 overall for the season.

Aquinas boasts an outstanding defense, allowing .83 goals allowed with only one goal scored upon in the last six games. The national tournament will be held Nov. 16-21.

Faul was injured early in the season and did not play in the conference or regional play-offs. Aquinas College is located in Grand Rapids, Michigan and is the Wolverine Hoosier Athletic Conference. Bethel was defending the Mid-Central Athletic Conference.

Illinois Wesleyan freshman Lauren Boegen (Waukegan, Warren H.S.) was named co-Player of the Week in the College Conference of Illinois & Wisconsin. Boegen scored two goals in a 5-1 CCIW victory over North Central on Oct. and earlier in the week dished out one assist in a 5-0 win over Fontbonne. In contention for a Division III playoff berth, IWU has set a school record with 13 victories this season.

Teammate Jill Denoma (Lake Villa, Carmel H.S.) has also turned in a solid 2000 campaign for the women's soccer team, scoring a goal to go along with four assists.

Clay Scott (Gurnee, Warren H.S.) leads the men's soccer team with seven goals. Josh Shipley and Chris Wirsing, both of Grayslake, have scored three and two goals, respectively. Lake Zurich product Paul Zidron has scored three goals while dishing out six assists.

Meanwhile, Nikkd Ogrin (Waukegan, Carmel H.S.) earned a third-place finish in the CCIW women's tennis tournament. Ogrin also took second-place in doubles as the Titans took third in the team standings. Ogrin currently ranks ninth in IWU career singles victories with a record of 47-36. She is 13-7 at No. 2 singles this season and 14-7 overall.

North Chicago product and Northern Illinois freshman Michael Turner is making quite a name for himself as part of the Huskies football team. Last week, Turner, who got his first first career start against Eastern Michigan, rumbled for 230 yards on 31 attempts and two scores (10 and 64 yards) as NIU lost 39-32.

Turner's 64-yard TD run marked the 15th longest rushing gain in NIU history.

Turner's 230 yards also marked the top performance by an NCAA 1-A frosh this season.

As part of the Augustana College women's swimming team, former Carmel grad and Mundelein native Gwen Illing claimed first-place in the 200 individual medley with a time of 2:25.24 as the Vikings downed Knox College 129-100.

of the Proposed Renewal of a Federally Enforceable State Operating Permit (FESOP) to RPP Printing Enterprises

RPP Printing Enterprises has requested that the Illinois EPA renew a federally enforceable state operating permit (FESOP) for its Libertyville location, at 1920 Enterprise Court, Libertyville, IL, 60048. The Illinois EPA is accepting comments on the proposed renewal. The permit will contain federally enforceable limitations that restrict the facility's emissions to non-major levels. The permit will be enforceable by the USEPA, as well as the Illinois EPA.

Persons wanting more information may obtain copies of the draft permit, and project summary at www.epa.gov/ARD-R5/permits/online.htm (please look at All Permit Records, FESOP, Renewal). These documents and the application may also be obtained from the Illinois EPA's office at 9511 West Harrison, Des Plaines, IL, 60016, (847) 294-4000 (please call ahead to assure that someone will be available to assist you) and 1340 North Ninth St., Springfield, 217782-7027. Copies of the documents will be made available upon request.

Comments are requested on the proposed permit. Comments must be postmarked by midnight December 16, 2000. If sufficient interest is expressed in a permit, a hearing may be held. Requests for information, comments, and questions should be directed to Brad Frost, Division of Air Pollution Control, Illinois Environmental Protection, Agency, P.O. Box 19506, Springfield, Illinois 62794-9506, phone (217) 782-2113, TDD phone number (217) 782-9143.

If you must give up your pet, please consider these facts.
*Free animal ads suggest that there is something wrong with the animal, or that it has no value.
*Some people who respond to these free animal ads are not reputable and are more concerned about making a profit than the animal.
*Charging a fee to a potential pet owner confirms the responsibility of pet ownership for an entire lifetime of that pet. For more information, please contact the Humane Society.

Building a Network by Developing Relationships By Scott T. Fleischmann

Last week I discussed how to build the relationships that will create a network. So, where can you go to build these relationships? You should look everywhere, because interesting people are everywhere.

The next question, of course, is "How do you know which people you want to meet?" Before you start the first conversation you don't know. As you find out more about them you can make that decision. So you need to talk to them before you will know how deep the relationship can go.

Usually people who have the same interests, culture and values as you do will be more attractive to you. Once you get good at starting these relationships, consider going out of your comfort zone and starting relationships with those who are different. This may be a stretch, but it will help you grow.

As I promised, here is the list of top 10 places to build relationships. I have put them in order of the easiest to the most difficult. Start with the easy ones and as you build confidence, progress to the more difficult situations.

1. Family - Is there a cousin that you have not talked to in a while? Make a point to talk to them at the next wedding or call him or her now.
2. Friends from the past - Have you lost track of an old friend? Well, track him or her down, and rebuild that relationship.
3. Church - The people at church probably have the same values that you have. Get to know them better.
4. People that you have worked with in the past - Are there people from prior jobs that you would like to get to know better?
5. Newer friends - Can you build a deeper relationship with someone you have known for a short time?
6. Neighbors - Do you know the occupations of those who live near you?
Do you know their hobbies and the names of their children? You have a common bond with these people because you all want a neat, safe neighborhood. Get to know them.
7. Civic Organization - Do you have an interest in volunteer work, or forestry, or politics? There are many opportunities to build new relationships in these organizations. Look for the Elks, or the American Legion, or other civic/service organizations.
8. Professional Organizations - Do you work in a skill or profession that has a union or professional organization? Go to the meetings. You will have a professional connection with all of these people.
9. Recruiters - Call companies that sound interesting to you and talk to the recruiters. Tell them that your not looking for a job now but you may be looking in the future. Start the relationship now.
10. Everyone - Talk to people on the train, people at the post office, and the people where you get your hair cut.

The key to building a network is to build relationships with others.
Everyone you meet is important and interesting. Get to know them.

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Q I started work at this company two weeks ago after four months of trying to find the right job. I was told when I started that I would not be eligible for company benefits for the first three months. I like my new job very much and have made some new friends since I started. I was talking today with some co-workers at lunch about the four day Thanksgiving weekend coming up and how we will get paid for the two days we get off that week. One of my co-workers said to me that I would not be paid for the days off, or any days off over Christmas and New Years, since I was not eligible for benefits until some time in January. The way I calculated it, I will lose out on six days of pay which I can't afford. I wish I would have known this sooner, I may not have taken the job. I was thinking of telling them they should have told me before and that I was expecting to be paid for those days. Do you think I should take a chance with that? Please respond via e-mail to: (e-mail withheld)

A You were told upon hire that you would not be eligible for company benefits until three months after hire. This usually means that all company benefits. Are paid holidays in your company considered a benefit? That I can not answer. You may wish to ask your direct supervisor what the case is, but beware of the way you approach the question. If you come across to harsh you are liable to back your supervisor into a corner. You should make sure that when you ask the question, do so in a manner that comes across as ... "I was wondering if ... " "I was wondering if perhaps I would be paid for the upcoming holidays, and if not, I would be willing to put in overtime hours on any projects you may need to make up for the time I will miss." You don't want to come across with an attitude that says ... "If I don't get paid for the holidays coming up then I might as well leave ... " You have worked for this company for two weeks. You like your new job and your co-workers. There would be nothing to gain by causing friction. A simple question ... and a simple answer. Remember though ... what ever the answer, take it like a professional. It may not be to your liking, however, putting up a scene would not be wise. Perhaps you may be surprised, that all along your company was planning to pay you because they value you as an employee. In either case six days off over that period of time should not be that difficult to juggle if you were off for the past four months while looking for the job you now have. Let me know how it comes out. Good Luck!

Almost home

By JOHN PHELPS, Sports Editor

Dora Maya, CEO and president of Arden Shore Child and Family Services of Vernon Hills, relaxes in the bedroom of two foster children who live at the center's Waukegan location. Photo by Sandy Brasher

*Foster care agency helps rebuild
children's lives*

There's no place like home. Well, almost. One major vehicle that comes pretty close to providing just that is Arden Shore Child and Family Services, based in Vernon Hills. In fact, they've been doing it for, oh, about 102 years.

"We're definitely one of the county's best-kept secrets," said Dora Maya, Arden Shore's CEO and president the past year and a half. "We hope to put the word out so that people can become more sensitive to it (foster care)."

Since 1898, the Lake County Agency has enjoyed a high placement rate, according to Maya. "It's tougher to find permanent homes for the older kids," she said. "But one of our goals is to try and establish that connection with perspective foster families and the child. We've had a very high success rate in doing so."

Maya went on to say that Arden Shore is at the high end of the placement process, with the next step being placement in a foster home, adoption or unification with the child's original family.

Ages of kids that have gone through the program have ranged from as young as 9 with 20 being the oldest. Arden Shore currently has two homes housing its clients, one located in Waukegan and the other, North Chicago.

The Waukegan group home, or the diagnostic home, is for the younger children. Ages in the diagnostic home, which currently houses six, range from 9-14.

"During the 90 days, we do an evaluation and assessment of the child as to see what necessary steps to take to provide the treatment and resources to enable them to reunite with their families or be successful in foster care," said Maya.

While staying in the diagnostic home, Maya and her staff makes sure that the children are always busy.

"All of them attend local area schools and when not in school, they have household chores, just like in the typical family setting," she said. "We also have plenty of activities for their entertainment. We really try and give them a the benefits of a home environment, which we're pretty understanding about."

As mentioned, the diagnostic home currently houses six children, two to a room. Facilities available include a basketball court in the driveway and recreation room, utilized for social events and studying.

Maya said that two adult supervisors are constantly on hand to provide guidance and assistance for the children from 6 a.m.-11 p.m. For the overnight hours, one adult supervisor is present.

Meanwhile, the North Chicago group home or 'boys group home' presently houses seven clients aged 14-19.

"At the boys group home, they are taught life skills and how to become independent," exclaims Maya. "We help provide them with skill training and job placement."

Most of the kids in the boys group home attend neighboring high schools and hold down jobs as to make extra money, all with the intention of preparing to go out into the real world.

There is one 19-year-old who is working full-time while also trying to earn his GED. Public transportation is generally the means of getting around and Maya said the agency has access to the Internet, for purposes of searching for jobs.

Maya also said that one of the high school students is doing quite well and was named Student of The Month. Aside from holding jobs, the boys receive allowances for extra-curricular activities and clothing.

And speaking of finances, Arden Shore continues to need the support of the community and the county.

"We have tremendous support from the community and various organizations," said Maya. "We need to continue that support in order to help a whole new generation of children."

Monies that help benefit Arden Shore, a non profit organization, come from a variety of sources.

A yearly 9-hole scramble golf outing is held during the summer. This year's outing, held at Mission Hills CC in North Brook, raised over $10,000. And even if not raising funds, getting the word out on legislation on children was the focus for where approximately 65 people that attended.

Furthermore, the 'Evening of Elegance,' took place September 30 in Barrington. The 'black tie' event, held annually and sponsored by WGN-TV Children's Charities, a fund of the Robert R. McCormick Tribune Foundation, helped generate over $140,000. Over 300 people attended to show support for the many needs of the clients of the agency.

Arden Shore held the 102nd Annual Meeting of the Membership of Arden Shore Child Family Services was another worthwhile event, held in late October at Knollwood Club in Lake Bluff. At that meeting, Pam Bailey of Lake Forest, having served as the Chair of the Board for the past two years, turned over the gavel to Dottie Rzeszutko of Barrington, who begins her term as Board Chair. Other members of the board present included Dewey Canton of Lake Bluff, Alan Ellenby of Deerfield, Roland Eckert, John Hunt and Elaine Donovan, all of Lake Forest. Sen. Terry Link was the featured speaker for the 65 people in attendance.

On Nov. 7, a reception was held at the Waukegan Public Library as to inform interested couples in foster care and the adoption process. Maya, along with staff members Dil Dybas,

Please see HOME / LAKELIFE 2

FROM LAKELIFE 1 HOME

Foster Care and Adoption Specialist, Rominita Segarra, Foster Care Recruiter, and Cindy Hicks, a foster parent for Arden Shore, were on hand to field questions pertaining to the licensing process for interested participants.

"People are really supporting the agency and we want to give a big thanks to them," said Maya.

A garage sale is slated to take place in Barlington in May 2001.

"We have already started taking donations," said Maya. "We are also presently selling holiday cards that have been signed by the children with proceeds going back to the children for activities."

Circle Group Internet of Mundelein is scheduled to host a Christmas party Dec. 10 in Mundelein. Kemper Corporation is also donating Christmas stockings for the kids and Maya said the agency is also conducting its annual solicitation.

With the holidays fast approaching, volunteers and tutors are always needed. Anyone interested in that or possibly becoming an adoptive parent may contact Dora Maya at (847) 549-1730, ext. 12.

There is an urgent need for nurturing families who can care for children ages 9-18. Right now, the need for families who have experience raising difficult teenagers is even more pressing. Foster children may require special education services, may have emotional or behavioral challenges but nonetheless, desperately want to belong to caring families. Bilingual and bicultural families are also needed to care for Hispanic teens and youths who may not speak English.

Prospective applicants need to meet minimum licensing standards, complete training, take a physical exam, and pass a background check. Foster parents are reimbursed for room and board and working parents may also provide foster care and DCFS (Department of Children Family Services) will fund daycare costs.

It would be well worth the phone call.

How the Glitch Stalled Whoville

Here in Whoville, Election Day normally brings less than half of all Whos to those voting booth things. Most elections are over before they begin, and we're already sure who will lose, who will win.

Still, some vote just because it's the right thing to do when you value your freedom, your life as a Who. And it's not that the other Whos don't feel the same; they just figure why vote when it won't change the game. But this time, something happened to make this November an election that Whoville will always remember. How could we forget? Why it's not even done! Though we voted 10 days ago, nobody's won.

Yes, the signs were all there that this race would be tight, which is why even more Whos used their voting right. But when it came down to the close of the day, the race was so close it could go either way, and in the end Florida held all the sway.

It sure didn't help that those media types, so eager for ratings they blew their own hype, were guessing the outcome before it was through—and meanwhile they made not one gaffe—they made two!

"Florida goes to Gore" was their first proclamation.

But two hours later came this exclamation: "Florida goes to our new President-elect Bush."

Someone ought to kick those anchor folks in the tush! For as it turns out, Bush was not yet the winner—each hour, his margins grew thinner and thinner.

In the meantime, the Vice-President had conceded, then taken it back, after vote spreads receded. When he told Mr. Bush, we hear Dubya got snippy, but you can't really blame him—the call burst his bippy. The election's delays soon turned news talk to blather, even from Channel 2's veteran, Dan Rather. With comments like, "Are your fingernails starting to sweat?", we wondered if maybe his brain was all wet.

By the following morning came word from that state, that the final results would for now have to wait. Not only were absentee ballots not in, but by law they would have to count votes once again.

As if that weren't enough...

A glitch in the process raised its ugly head, causing doubt about just what the voters had "said". People in Palm Beach County claimed their ballot design made them punch the wrong hole 'cause it didn't align. Folks like Emma Lou Who, who is 72, had complained to their election judge. "Hey! Hey, you! This ballot is crazy. I can't tell which hole I should punch for Al Gore 'cause I hate that Bob Dole."

LIFE'S A BEAR

"Uh...Maam?" said the judge. "You're a little confused..."

"You're darn right I am, and quit looking amused. Just tell me which hole is the right one to punch, or I'm going to be late for my senior discount lunch!"

As the votes went to recount, and voters protested, soon lawyers stepped in and both parties contested. Yes, this glitch down in Florida's caused quite a mess. This could be much worse than a little blue dress. It is now mid-November; we still have no clue, just who won the Presidency.

Who is it? WHO?

Here we sit, all of Whoville, our future on hold, as we wait for the final results to be told. Are we winners? Losers? Are we happy or sad? Boy, this Mickey Mouse mess sure is making us mad.

While we Whos know that Billy Who still steers "the truck", we know steering gets harder when you're a lame duck. So you surely can't blame us for feeling uneasy; this glitch down in Florida's making us queasy. The election's now hanging by each little chad, while political wrangling is going on like mad. And when all this is finished, just what will be won? Will Whoville or Congress support either one?

I don't know the answer, but one thing is true: this crazy election has taught every Who that every vote matters, and every vote counts...

And counts...and counts...and counts...

Tree lightings, Santa visits and holiday festivities

Communities across the area have several events planned to celebrate the holiday season. Here's a town by town listing of just some of the events...

Antioch

• Decorating the Antioch tree

The Antioch Community Development Department invites all to participate in making homemade ornaments for the Antioch Family Christmas Tree. Ornaments should be made of weather-resistant material, have a 10-inch wire for hanging and the family name on them. Bring ornaments to the Antioch Village Hall, Main St., from 9 a.m.-5 p.m., Monday through Friday up to Nov. 23.

On Friday, Nov. 24, the Holiday Program starts at 6:30 p.m. with a parade beginning at the intersection of Park Ave. and Main St. and ending on Toft Ave. in front of Santa's Enchanted Castle. The evening includes caroling, hot chocolate and homemade cookies, a visit with Santa and the tree lighting ceremony at 7 p.m.

• Holiday Lights of Antioch

Decorate the outside of your home and enter Holiday Lights of Antioch. The Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry and CAN will host the Holidays Lights of Antioch. Register by phoning the Chamber office at 395-2233.

• Find Frosty

Enjoy Antioch during the Holidays by spending a magical day with your child (or grandchild) finding all the Frosty the Snowman in downtown Antioch Dec. 4 through Dec. 20. Visit participating merchants and pick up a Frosty form. Count all the snow men in the windows and drop your completed form at participating merchants or at the Chamber Office, 882 Main St. One lucky person will win $250 in Chamber Gift Certificates!

• Santa's Enchanted Castle

Come and visit Santa's Enchanted Castle located on Toft Ave. in Antioch. The Castle will be open from Friday, Nov. 24 until Saturday, Dec. 23. Monday through Friday hours are 5:30-8 p.m. Weekend hours are 11-4 p.m. Pictures may be taken with Santa.

Yiddish Arts Ensemble's 'Hershel and the Hanukkah Goblins' returns

Centre East presents the critically acclaimed children's holiday musical Hershel and the Hanukkah Goblins. The Yiddish Arts Ensemble and the Maxwell Street Klezmer Band brings this holiday tradition, recommended for children age 5-11, to the Centre East Theatre in the North Shore Center for the Performing Arts in Skokie, 9501 Skokie Blvd., Sunday, Nov. 26 at 1 p.m.

Based on Eric Kimmel's children's story, the delightful musical is the tale of the Hanukkah goblins who try to keep a whole village of frightened peasants from celebrating Hanukkah, the Festival of Lights. They blow out candles, break menorahs, steal dreidels and spill platters of latkes on the floor. To make matters worse, the King of the Goblins has cast a spell that no one can break—no one until Hershel of Ostropol comes to town.

The one-hour production features veteran Chicago actor Bernard Beck as the historic folk hero whose wit and courage triumph over tyranny.

Lori Lippitz, founding director for the Maxwell Street Klezmer Band, collaborated initially in 1989 with script writer/director Lynn Shapiro, of the Yiddish Arts Ensemble, to produce a kezmer musical, the ideal mesh of Yiddish folklore and music that had become the trademark of their joint venture.

The Yiddish Arts Ensemble is a not-for-profit company that brings its musical theatre productions and programs to schools, community centers, synagogues and museums throughout Illinois and neighboring states, and is dedicated to exposing audiences to the Yiddish cultural heritage.

Centre East is located at the North Shore Center for the Performing Arts in Skokie, 9501 Skokie Blvd. Tickets are $11 for adults and $9 for children 12 and under. For tickets or more information call the Centre East box office at 673-6300 or Ticketmaster at (312) 902-1500.

SPECIAL EVENT

Car collection debuts in Thanksgiving Day parade

The Volo Auto Museum is inaugurating its new Celebrity Car Division by bringing fabulous cars to the Field's Jingle Elf Parade held in Chicago on Thanksgiving Day. It is a lineup of six cars that kept company with some famous people, or entertained us as celebrities in their own right.

Holy Horsepower, it's a brand new Batmobile, from the 1966 TV series with Adam West. It's tricked out with all the incredible crime fighting gimmicks that made the shows and the car so much fun.

What could be a better reminder of Christmas Past than Natalie Wood, and her stirring performance as a child in that great Christmas classic, "Miracle on 34th Street." To celebrate, Volo Auto Museum is bringing her car to the party. It's a flawless 1963 Buick Riviera, purchased new by Natalie Wood, just days after her divorce from Robert Wagner, whom she remarried later. The 1963 Riviera was perhaps the most elegant personal car design of the decade.

Another '60s car, one that became a movie star, is the 1960 Buick LeSabre that was the focal point of the 1982 movie, "Right Of Way," starring Jimmy Stewart and Bette Davis. Both stars, quite elderly at the time, had never made a picture together. In this motion picture, the Buick, in its starring role, dramatic in its striking black and red mirror finish, was the instrument for carrying out the dying couple's suicide pact. Historical note: Bette Davis, being Bette Davis, was the first, and only, person to ever use the ashtray.

Michael Jordan's sports car is represented, which is a 1993 Chevrolet Corvette ZR-1 405 horsepower LT5. It was the first one built, made as a gift for Jordan. Finished in ruby red with a matching ruby leather interior, it is one of only 220 built.

There's even more celebrity cars along with 250 collectible cars on exhibit and for sale at the Volo Auto Museum in Volo. The complex also features three Antique malls with some 300 dealers. Located near the junctions of Hwy. 12 and 120, the museum is open 7 days a week from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on-line any time at volocars.com.

For more information call (815) 385-3644.

Holiday events Chicago-style

Kicking off its annual "Come Home to the Holidays" celebration, Navy Pier will deck the halls with holiday cheer beginning Sunday, Nov. 19. Navy Pier's penguin characters, Clyde & Montau, A Piering Daily and the Navy Pier Players—will line Dock Street to give Santa and his elves a warm Chicago-style welcome as they arrive at Navy Pier by boat. As part of the festivities, the Pier will host its traditional Pier lighting ceremony and a colorful fireworks display.

Continuing every day through Dec. 24, Santa will greet children, listen to their holiday wishes and pose with them for photographs. Santa will sit on his throne in front of his gingerbread house located on the North Pole Stage in the Family Pavilion. Visiting hours will be: Daily: 11 a.m.-7 p.m. Thanksgiving: Closed. Christmas Eve: 11 a.m.-5 p.m.

For information, call (312) 595-PIER, or (800) 595-PIER.

The 87 Annual City of Chicago Holiday Tree Lighting Ceremony will take place on Friday, Nov. 24, at Daley Plaza (located at Washington and Dearborn streets).

The ceremony will feature live musical entertainment and Mayor Richard M. Daley will officiate the lighting of the holiday tree. The festivities begin at 4 p.m. and with the flip of a switch, Mayor Daley will put the sparkle in Chicago's holiday season with a dazzling display of lights and ornaments on the great tree at Daley Plaza.

Join the City of Chicago for Field's Jingle Elf Parade from 8:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Thursday, Nov. 23. The parade will march north along State St. from Congress Parkway to Randolph St. Approximately 100 units, including marching bands, giant helium balloons, floats and specialty groups will participate in Chicago's official holiday parade.

The Christkindlmarket Chicago 2000 will open 11 a.m.-4 p.m. with a sneak preview on Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, Nov. 23. The Christkindlmarket is patterned after the famous outdoor markets of Germany. The market will feature more than 50 booths offering handmade glass ornaments, wooden toys, cuckoo clocks, nutcrackers and gingerbread. A selection of traditional German and American food also will be offered. The Grand Opening Ceremony will begin at afternoon Friday, Nov. 24; the market will be open through Dec. 20. Daily hours are 11 a.m.-8 p.m. For information call (312) 644-2662.

Get a "Great View and Santa Too" at The Hancock Observatory. Starting on Nov. 24, for the regular admission price of $8.75 adults and $6 children (under 4 free)—visitors can give their lists to Santa and receive a free photo with Old St. Nick. Santa and Mrs. Claus will be at the observatory from 11 a.m.-5:30 p.m. on Nov. 24-26; Dec. 2-3, 9-10, 16-17, and 23-24.

Also the Hancock Holiday Mountain Railroad will be on display. This 1,375-square-foot model train exhibit features nine trains, including a Hanukkah train. The Observatory is open daily and is located at John Hancock Center, 875 N. Michigan Ave. For information call 1-888-875-VIEW (8439).

'Rehearsal for Murder'

Village Theatre Productions begins their second season with "Rehearsal for Murder," a thrilling theatrical mystery in which the actors take the audience by the hand and lead them in different directions. This thriller will leave you guessing up until the last minute.

Shows will be on Nov. 17 and 18 at 7 p.m. and Nov. 19 at 3 p.m. Tickets are on sale now at the Libertyville Parks & Recreation Department, 625 West Brainerd Rd. Advanced ticket purchase, $4, $5 at the door. For more information call, 918-7275.

PM&L's 2nd show

The delightful, warm-hearted comedy, "The Curious Savage" by Patrick Dennis, will be the second show of the 40th season at the PM&L Theatre, 877 Main St., Antioch. Show dates are Nov. 17-18, 24-25, and Dec. 1-2 at 8 p.m. and Nov. 19, 26, Dec. 3 at 2:30 p.m.

Reservations can be made by calling 395-3055 or at the box office starting Nov. 6. Tickets are $10 for adults and $8 for students and seniors. Box office hours are Mon.-Thurs. 5:30-7:30 p.m., Sat. 11 a.m.-2 p.m., and 1 1/2 hours before curtain time on show dates.

Musical for children

Aladdin's magical adventures come alive before your eyes in the production of "Aladdin" at the Marriott Theatre, Nov. 15 and running through Dec. 30. Performances are Mondays through Fridays at 10 a.m. and Saturdays at 11 a.m. A special performance will take place on Saturday, Nov. 25 at 1:30 p.m. and all proceeds from this performance will be donated to Children's Miracle Network/Children's Memorial Hospital.

Tickets are $8 and available by calling the box office at 634-0200. The Marriott Theatre is located at 10 Marriott Dr., Lincolnshire.

MUSEUMS

Christmas around the world

Opening Nov. 17 and running through Jan. 7, The Museum of Science and Industry's "Christmas Around the World" celebration offers visitors a rare opportunity to share the celebration of the holidays from Poland to Puerto Rico, from Iceland to India. "Christmas Around the World" features 50 trees and three crèches, carefully decorated by members of Chicago's cultural communities. The museum will host special programs, performances and activities for the whole family. Call the Museum of Science and Industry, 57th St. and Lake Shore Dr., at 1-800-GO TO MSI.

MUSIC

Redbone in concert

Leon Redbone, eclectic musician and the mysterious reclusive man behind the sunglasses and white Panama hat, will present two concerts at the Woodstock Opera House on Friday, November 24 and Saturday, Nov. 25. Shows begin at 8 p.m.

At the Northwest Suburban JCC's Annual Family Holiday Boutique, you'll find gifts for everyone on your Hanukkah list and items for the home and holidays. Choose from a wonderful selection of crafts, jewelry, art, clothing and Judaic items. You'll also find a celebration of Jewish books for yourself, your children and your friends. Bring the whole family for a fun day of shopping, learning and socializing on Sunday, November 19, from 10 a.m.-4 p.m.

While you shop, there is free baby-sitting. Children can listen to Hanukkah storytelling and make and take a craft project.

For more information, call Lois at the Northwest Suburban JCC, 392-7411.

ART EXHIBITS

Children, adults show work

A joint display of art work done by children at Strange Elementary School and the Kenosha School of Language will be on display in the West Wing Student Galleries at the Anderson Arts Center now through Jan. 7.

In addition, the Winter Juried Exhibit and a group show entitled "Tis The..." will run through Jan. 7 as well. Gallery hours are Tuesdays 1-4 p.m., Wednesdays 5-8 p.m., Thursdays through Sundays 1-4 p.m. Anderson Arts Center is located at 121 66th St., Kenosha. For information call (262) 653-0481.

Exhibit 5

Exhibit 5, displaying the works of five Chicago area artists who were members of the original Chicago co-op gallery Exhibit A, opens at the Suburban Fine Arts Center, Dec. 8 and runs through Jan. 2. Included in the exhibit are Ralph Arnold, Morris Barazani, Janet Satz, Leopold Segedin and Joan Taxay Weinger. The opening reception for this exhibit of two dimensional work is Friday, Dec. 8, from 6:30-8 p.m.

The Suburban Fine Art Center is a 40-year old not-for-profit art gallery and school and is located at 1913 Sheridan Rd. For more information, call 432-1888.

BENEFIT

Quilt Raffle

The Fredrick School PTO have been donated a handmade quilt to help raise funds for the students and teachers of the school. The quilt, a queen/king size, features the colors of blue, teal and white and is valued at $2,000. Handmade and donated by Mary Smialek, the quilt will be on display at Fredrick School and the Grayslake Library or can be seen in a color photograph at any school and many local businesses.

Tickets are available at the Fredrick School office or by calling Mary Smialek at 548-4115. Raffle tickets are $5 each or 3 for $10. The winning ticket will be drawn on Wednesday, Dec. 13.

Winter clothing drive

During the month of November, a winter clothing drive will be sponsored by Victory Memorial Hospital in Waukegan and Victory Lakes Continuing Care Center in Lindenhurst. Used, good quality winter coats, hats, mittens, jeans, sweaters, sweatshirts, etc. are needed to help keep those in need warm this winter.

Donations can be dropped off now through Nov. 30 in the specially marked containers in the main lobby at the hospital, 1324 North Sheridan Rd., Waukegan, or the main entrance at the continuing care center, 1055 East Grand Ave., Lindenhurst. Donations will be accepted 7 days a week, between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. For more information, call 360-4127.

DANCE

Buoys & Belles

Join the Buoys & Belles Square Dance Club on Friday, Nov. 17, for the Grandma's Featherbed Dance, to be held at First United Methodist Church, 128 N. Utica St., Waukegan. The plus workshop starts at 8 p.m., main stream at 8:30 p.m. and the plus tip at 10:30 p.m. Cost is $4 per person and all modern western square dancers are invited.

Sing-up for beginners lessons starting Jan. 3. For more information, call 746-1461.

HOLIDAY CRAFTS

Design a menorah

The Northbrook Park District is offering families a unique way to celebrate Hanukkah. Beginning at 1 p.m. on Sunday, Nov. 19, children ages 6-12, along with a parent, will create a festive candle holder, suitable to give as a gift or take home to use for the holiday. Ceramic pieces will be fired in a kiln and painted. Classes will be held at the Leisure center, 3323 Walters Ave., Northbrook. Call 291-2980 to register.

Make a candy house

The Kenosha Public Museum, 5608 Tenth Ave., Kenosha, will hold a family "candy house" workshop on Wednesday, Dec. 6 from 6-8 p.m. and Sunday, Dec. 9 from 9:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. Using graham crackers, cookies, frosting, candy, gum and imagination, design and construct a fantasy house fit for Hansel & Gretel. Call the Museum at (262) 653-4140 to register.

Gingerbread time

Begin with an assortment of gingerbread, add assorted candies and dollops icing and you'll have a beautiful, delicious holiday gingerbread house. Join the Northbrook Park District's annual gingerbread house workshop on Saturday, Dec. 9 at 10:30 a.m. at the Leisure Center, 3323 Walters Ave., Northbrook. Children ages 6-14 are invited along with a parent. Space is limited and registration is required by Dec. 1. For more information, call 291-2980.

Adler announces new staff member

The David Adler Cultural Center announces its latest addition to the Music Instruction staff, Nancy Lynn Miller. Miller comes to them from New York City, having taught violin privately since 1977. She has held a variety of Suzuki teaching positions, including several years at the Jewish Community Center of Staten Island and the Third St. Music School Settlement of New York City.

Miller's ensemble coaching has included work with the Shore Quartet and the Inspiration Duo. Her Ensemble performance work includes the Shore Quartet, Inspiration Duo, A Tempa String Quartet, and the SWANN Quintet. She has been a member of several area orchestras including the Northwest Indiana Symphony, Lake Forest Symphony, Elgin Symphony, Metro Lyric Opera Orchestra and the New Brunswick Chamber Orchestra. She has also performed with the Connecticut Symphony Orchestra, the Massachusetts Symphony Orchestra and the Delaware Symphony Orchestra.

She has been a student of Stephanie Mies, Elisabeth Matesky, Ariana Bronne and Raphael Bronstein and Howard Beebe.

Miller is a graduate of the Manhattan School of Music with her Masters of Violin Performance with highest honors. She also holds a Bachelor of Music Degree from Ohio University, also graduating with honors.

Anyone interested in taking lessons with Miller can call 367-0707 or they can come by the David Adler Cultural Center at 1700 North Milwaukee Avenue, Libertyville.

Holiday pet photos packages available

The family pets are invited to join in the season's fun during a special party at the American Pet Motel in Prairie View on Saturday, Dec. 2 from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

A highlight of the party will be the pet holiday photos. Pet lovers can choose a seasonal shot of Fido alone, or the whole family can pose with Fluffy for a great holiday portrait.

Photo packages begin at $15 for a 5x7 portrait. All proceeds of the pet photography will go to support Orphans of the Storm Animal Shelter, a not-for-profit organization that rescues and finds permanent homes for more than 2,500 abandoned dogs and cats each year. Located in Riverwoods/Deerfield, it has been in operation since 1928.

There will be music, holiday refreshments and a special sale of holiday gift items for pets and pet lovers.

American Pet Motel is located at 22096 N. Pet Lane in Prairie View. For information or directions, call 634-9444 or visit the web site at www.best-friendspetcare.com.

Celebrate the holidays with José Feliciano check it out!

World-renowned guitarist/singer/songwriter José Feliciano will be wishing everyone "Feliz Navidad" at The Hemmens Cultural Center, 150 Dexter Court, Elgin, at 8 p.m., Dec. 8.

This amazing performing artist has been awarded forty-five Gold and Platinum records, won sixteen Grammy nominations (most recently for his album, Señor Bolero) and earned six Grammy Awards. Guitar magazine has chosen him Best Pop Guitarist for five years running and in 1996, Feliciano received Billboard magazine's Lifetime Achievement Award.

Feliciano has performed around the world, has recorded songs in four languages and has done numerous television specials. Along with earning Grammys and Gold and Platinum records for his artistry, his star is on Hollywood's Walk of Fame.

The three songs that have been milestones for Feliciano are: "Light My Fire," "Che Sera," and "Feliz Navidad," the Christmas song that has become a worldwide tradition during the holiday season. ASCAP has placed this song among the 25 Greatest Holiday Songs of the Century.

Feliciano's distinctive voice will light up the Hemmens stage on Dec. 8 at 8 p.m. Tickets are $60 (Golden Circle); $46 (Main floor); $44 (balcony) and can be purchased by calling The Hemmens' 24-hour Charge-It-Line at 931-5900 or at the box office in Elgin's downtown Civic Center.

"Our challenge is to sell all of our activities—not just skating. To track our advertising results we use coupons and have been overwhelmed by the great response from Lakeland Newspapers. We get thousands of clipped coupons every time we place an ad with Lakeland," said Jeanne Lundgren, Director of Sales and Marketing. "If I could do a 5-year commitment for the Kid's Korner I would do it. That's how successful it has been," said John Nielsen, General Manager.

Shimer college hosts workshop and play

Anton Chekov's master work The Seagull will be presented for two successive weekends in November by a dozen Shimer College students who are studying the famous "method acting" style of the great Russian theater director, Konstantine Stanislavski. The students are working under the tutelage of two women directors, one of whom worked with the Moscow Art Theater.

The Seagull will be presented at 8 p.m., Nov. 17-18 at the Shimer College Theater on Cory St. between Genesee and Sheridan Rd., Waukegan. There will be a matinee performance on Nov. 18 at 3 p.m.

A special "Workshop in Method Acting" for high school students will be hosted on Nov. 18 starting at 10 a.m. and concluding with the play's matinee presentation.

"This play presents the perfect forum for what has become known as method acting," says Eileen Buchanan, Director of Theater at Shimer College. "It will allow the students to put their classroom work into practice on stage."

"The philosophies of Russian method acting, specifically Stanislavsky, provide a student with an understanding of the theater that is both wonderfully practical and academic," says Amy Broussard, Assistant Director of Theater, who developed the concept of the Method Acting class for Shimer students. "This class, and the workshop for high school students, will help participants come to an understanding of the basis of modern acting."

Broussard has worked with the Moscow Art Theater and devoted a graduate thesis to the methodology of Stanislavsky.

"Stanislavsky originally directed The Seagull at the Moscow Art Theater in 1898," Broussard points out. "The Stanislavskian actors had to understand everything about the rolls they undertook. The characters were actually to be brought to life on stage."

Tickets for The Seagull are $5. ($3 for students and seniors.)

The workshop for high school students is limited to 12 and has a fee of $8 per student. The workshop is on a first-come, first-serve basis.

For further information on the performances of The Seagull or on the workshop, please call Eileen Buchanan at 249-7187.

'Herbal Bed' skirts around the truth

A circumspect love triangle involving William Shakespeare's daughter Susanna Hall, her physician husband and a close family friend is at the heart of "The Herbal Bed," an intriguing, inventive story by British playwright Peter Whelan being staged at Chicago's Navy Pier as the first studio production at Chicago Shakespeare Theatre. Most of the action takes place in 1613 in Stratford-upon-Avon in an attractive outdoor garden where John Hall grows and compounds medicinal herbs.

A feisty, undisciplined student of his, dismissed because of his lack of earnestness, gets drunk and makes accusations against the doctor's wife. A married family friend, Rafe Smith, was seen leaving the herbal garden late one night when the doctor was out of town on a call. Are they condemned if they don't confess, or destroyed if they do?

Susanna sues her accuser for slander, and a battle to preserve reputations ensues.

Somewhere along the line the truth gets muddled, Susanna arguing: "How can you like to God when he knows everything?" Whelan's play tackles some weighty issues, and it does so with passionate intensity.

Director Gary Griffin has pulled together a thoroughbred cast, including leads Lisa Dodson, Scott Jaek, Philip Earl Johnson- the entangled trio; and Joe Sikora, the accuser. Marcia Reinhard as the resourceful maid and David Perkovich as the frightening bishops inquisitor contribute mightily as well.

"The Herbal Bed" runs through Dec. 10. Ticket information is available at (312) 595-5600. — By Tom Witom

'The Nutcracker' Ballet comes to Aurora University

The Nutcracker ballet will be presented at George Williams, Lake Geneva, a campus of Aurora University in Williams Bay, Wis. This classic holiday ballet will be performed by the Dance Factory of Delavan and is brought to the campus by the Performing Arts and Community Events program. There will be three days of performances including an elegant afternoon of dining and entertainment open to the public on Nov. 19 and two days of special performances for area schools on Nov. 20 and Nov. 21.

Nov. 19 will begin with dinner at the historic Lewis Dining Room overlooking the beautiful Lake Geneva at 4:30 p.m. The ballet will take place in the Frank Activity Center at 6 p.m. The recorder group, 'Pastyme with Good Companye', and a Christmas Tree Auction will be featured during the dinner. Tickets for the Sunday performance and dinner cost $16 for adults and $14 for children under 12 years of age and seniors over 65. Tickets will not be available at the door and must be ordered in advance by calling the campus ticket line at (262) 245-8580 Monday-Thursday 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Fridays 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. Visa and MasterCard are accepted.

Special performances for area schools will be held Nov. 20-21 at a special rate. The Tuesday performances are sold out, however reservations are still available for both performances on Nov. 20 at 9 a.m. and 12 p.m. Anyone interested in making reservations for the school performances or in donating a free tree for the Christmas Tree Auction should call Deb Williamson at (262) 245-8537.

HOROSCOPE

Aries - March 21/April 20

Think before you speak when meeting with an important person early in the week, Aries. He or she can offer you a great opportunity - if you don't upset him or her. So, be courteous, and keep your unusual opinions to yourself. Biting your tongue definitely will be worth it.

Taurus - April 21/May 21

Your temper gets the best of you when a loved one involves you in a sticky situation. While you need to let off some steam, don't stay angry at this person for very long. He or she doesn't mean to cause you any harm. Try to calm down, and work with him or her to resolve the matter. Libra plays an important role.

Gemini - May 22/June 21

Everyone seems to be pulling you in a different direction this week, Gemini. Instead of stretching yourself too thin over the next few days, you should set your priorities. Only help those who really need it; the others can get by on their own. That special someone takes you out late in the week. Enjoy yourself!

Cancer - June 22/July 22

A problem at work upsets you during the middle of the week. While the higher-ups put a lot of pressure on you to rectify the situation, don't take your bad mood home with you. Keep your priorities straight, and remember that your personal life is much more important than your job.

Leo - July 23/August 23

Don't hold a grudge against an acquaintance who makes an honest mistake on Thursday. He or she doesn't mean to cause you any problems. Realize this, and try to work with this person to set things straight. Your efforts will be appreciated. A loved one needs your help with a family matter. Do what you can for him or her.

Virgo - Aug 24/Sept 22

You have an important personal decision to make this week, Virgo, and you shouldn't take it lightly. Be selective, and do what is best for you. If you're not sure exactly what that is, turn to a loved one for advice. He or she has your best interest at heart. Scorpio plays a key role on Friday.

Libra - Sept 23/Oct 23

Don't get upset by a close friend's comments on Tuesday. He or she is joking and just wants to make you laugh. Don't take this ribbing to heart, because it doesn't mean anything. A loved one asks you an important question. Answer honestly.

Scorpio - Oct 24/Nov 22

Try not to let your ego get the best of you when a close friend thanks you for your assistance with a financial matter. Be humble - not conceited - if you want to remain close with him or her. A business associate reveals his or her true feelings for you. Let this person down gently. Aries plays an important role.

Sagittarius - Nov 23/Dec 21

Things are going to get hectic this week, Sagittarius, when several people need you to do things for them. Don't stress out, because there's no need to panic. You can do it all if you just stay calm and get organized. Those involved will be impressed with how you handle everything.

Capricorn - Dec 22/Jan 20

A family friend turns to you for advice on how to handle a sticky situation. Give him or her your honest opinion, and try to help as much as you can. Your efforts will be appreciated and rewarded. That special someone asks you an important question late in the week. Don't worry - it's not that question!

Aquarius - Jan 21/Feb 18

You're on your own this week, Aquarius, and that's just how you like it. You have the chance to set your own agenda and make quite a bit of progress toward a personal goal. Take advantage of this. You meet an interesting person during the weekend. Get to know him or her better.

Pisces - Feb 19/March 20

Everything isn't as rosy as it seems this week. Don't be fooled by some of the things that those closest to you are saying. They're keeping something from you. Try to find out what it is, because it involves you.

Only a few weeks left to join

You only have two weeks remaining to join Lakeland Newspapers Fantasy Football Monthly's December contest. All December entries must be postmarked by November 30th.

The winner of the November contest will be published in your December 7th edition. As you may remember, the October prize for $100 was split between Jon Oliphant and Bob Raymond, each of whom had 119 team touchdowns.

Pay very close attention to injuries heading into December and January. Last week, Marshall Faulk went down. This week, Brett Favre and Ricky Williams left their respective games with injuries. All three were guys that were producing a ton of touchdowns. All but Williams should be back by December, but be careful.

Also, keep your eye out for quarterbacks that can run. This week, Jeff Garcia ran in two touchdowns from the goal line. This does two things, one-if you have Garcia you gain a touchdown (we count ALL td's, not just the thrown ones) and two - it takes one away from the team's running backs. If you are picking Charlie Garner, this is a bad thing. So, also consider running quarterbacks (Culpepper, Flutie, McNown, Stewart) when picking your running backs.

Finally, this is the time of year for rookies.
Many teams find themselves out of the playoff hunt right about this time of year and look to the future.
When teams think they have a shot at the post-season, they give the ball to the veterans. But if a team has a losing record, watch their rookies numbers increase.

FANTASY FOOTBALL COMES TO LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS

Something new has come to Lakeland Newspapers this fall in the form of Fantasy Football Monthly. The new football contest challenges readers to pick NFL players from six different categories and hope that their players score more touchdowns than anybody else.

Each month readers will select their 12 players from the above categories. At the end of the month the reader who's team has the most total throwing, rushing and receiving touchdowns will win $100 from Lakeland Newspapers. Monthly winners will also be put in a drawing to win an authentic NFL football autographed by Chicago Bears star Jim Flanigan.

Enter by mailing this page with your picks, your name, address and daytime phone number to: FANTASY FOOTBALL MONTHLY, Lakeland Media, 30 S. Whitney, Grayslake, IL 60030. Entries must be in Lakeland's hands no later than the Friday before the month begins. If an entry comes in after deadline-the picks will not count until the next month's contest. The contest will begin at the beginning of each month.

Medical care for the deaf comes to Lake County

Lewis Barr, M.D. is the most recent resource to Chicago's deaf community. After devoting more than 25 years to practicing pulmonology, Dr. Barr has decided to pursue another of his interests — sign language. He recently opened the doors of his new general medicine practice in Grayslake, where he is fully equipped to serve the deaf as well as hearing community of the Chicago area.

Six years ago, he began studying American Sign Language (ASL), after seeing a couple signing in a restaurant. According to Barr, "I'd never seen a form of communication as expressive and graceful as sign language. I immediately wanted to be a part of that interaction." Despite his inability to learn a spoken foreign language, Dr. Barr excelled at ASL. "I tried many times to speak Spanish, but it just didn't stick. When I began learning ASL, I was amazed to see how easily it came to me," he said.

A New Jersey native, Dr. Barr earned his B.A. at the University of Pennsylvania in 1967 and graduated from The Chicago Medical School in 1971. He completed his internship and residency at Mt. Sinai Hospital Medical Center and Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center. He chose to specialize in pulmonary disease, doing his fellowship work at Loyola University and the Hines V.A. Hospital.

Dr. Barr started his own practice at the age of 30, and has contributed his skills to the medical staff of Condell Medical Center, Resurrection Hospital and Holy Family Medical Center, where he was named as "Doctor of the Quarter." He also has been one of the most respected members of the teaching staff at Loyola University Medical School and Resurrection Hospital, winning "Teacher of the Year" in 1978, 1983, 1988 and honored again in 2000.

Dr. Barr is thrilled to be embarking on his second career. He hopes to make his practice accessible to all of patients, hearing and deaf alike and provide personal, "old-fashioned" medical attention to all. According to Barr, "Intangibles, such as psychological and emotional support and trust, have been deleted from the equation of health care consequent to the relentless pursuit of the 'bottom-line price'. I believe that these factors must be resurrected in order to provide more fully for patients." While he is happy to help patients deal with their insurance companies, his goal is to create a stronger bond between doctor and patient as opposed to one between doctor and insurance company and therefore, he has not contracted with any managed-care organization.

Dr. Barr lives in Riverwoods with his wife and dog. One of his great passions is bicycling and has recently completed a 300 mile trip through the state of Wisconsin. For more information about Dr. Lewis Barr, please call 231-5286, 231-5288 (TTY) or log onto his website at www.lewisbarrmd.com.

Five holiday gift ideas for the healthy minded

Don't panic. There are still plenty of shopping days left this holiday season. But before venturing out to tackle your gift list, resolve to shop smarter and healthier this year. Instead of resorting to such expected gifts as neckties, perfumes and fruitcakes, consider buying something that will make a lasting - and healthy - impression on your friends and family.

More and more people are evaluating their lifestyle. Give them an enjoyable way to improve their health and well-being. What better way to show people you care than by giving them a gift that pays off into the future? Here are a few gift ideas within different price ranges that will help your loved ones have a healthier New Year, and help ensure the gift you buy won't wind up in the closet.

1) Water Filter. Whether it's a water filter pitcher or a faucet mount that attaches right to the tap, a good water filter will do more than simply improve the taste and smell of tap water. It will also improve water quality by reducing potentially harmful tap water contaminants. PUR Water Purification products offer a clean, tasty way to improve your health. Filter installation requires no tools, takes only a few minutes and works on all standard faucets. Plus, the Automatic Safety Monitor Gauge monitors usage and automatically shuts off when the filter needs replacement. To find a store near you, visit www.purwater.com. About $15-$50.

2) Health Club Membership. A good workout may be the world's best stress buster. Many health clubs include complimentary sessions with a personal trainer for new members. Others offer one-on-one appointments with nutritional experts and massage therapists on an a la carte basis. Be sure to tour clubs near the recipient's home or work to find the best and most convenient facility. If you can't afford to give an annual membership, consider picking up the initiation fee or inquire about a trial membership. About $35-$45/month, plus initiation fee.

3) State or County Park Pass. Tell someone to "take a hike" - in a nice way - this holiday season. What better way to enjoy nature and get into shape than to go hiking or canoeing in one of our country's beautiful state or county parks? Give the nature-lovers on your gift list a yearlong pass that will allow them to escape from the business of everyday life to the wonders of the great outdoors. Contact your state Department of Natural Resources or County offices, or visit a nearby park office to purchase a pass for the upcoming year. About $20-50.

4) Health and Fitness Magazine Subscription. Give a gift of monthly inspiration and motivation for the continued well-being of a loved one. There are a number of health and fitness magazines for both men and women. Scan a newsstand to get a sense of the most popular and appropriate titles, such as Shape, SELF and Men's Health, or visit their Web sites for detailed subscription information. Magazines can provide helpful insight and useful information on diet and nutrition, equipment and training techniques. About $15-25.

5) Cookbook. For most people, the hardest part of any wellness program is learning to eat healthier. A cookbook is a great gift idea to help guide people toward better cooking and eating habits. And it makes your shopping easy too -- just stop by your local bookstore or log onto the Internet to place an order at www.amazon.com or www.barnesandnoble.com. If you order online, remember to allow 2-3 weeks for delivery. About $15-50.

If you're still unsure what to get the people on your list this holiday season, consider a gift certificate to an athletic or health store in their area. A gift certificate is guaranteed to please even the person on your list who is hardest to shop for. He or she can pick out the running shoes, equipment or vitamins needed to jumpstart their fitness plans. Courtesy ARA Content, www.aracontent.com, e-mail: info@aracontent.com

Where do we draw the line?

Hi Dr. Singer,

I was wondering if you had seen or heard about that new "Death Row Doll?" I saw it on the news and my mouth about hit the floor. What are these people thinking? D.J.

Hi D.J.,

My mouth was right there along with yours! I am stunned and amazed but in some ways not surprised. For those of you who are "in the dark" about this doll, it is reported to be a doll taken from a certain comic book character. The doll is in an electric chair and I believe there is a switch to be thrown included. I didn't really want to hear more about it, so that's what I know.

PARENT'S PLACE

Of course, the first thing that was mentioned about it, during the newscast, was the invocation of freedom of speech and expression. I am not a proponent of censorship, however, I also believe that in many situations, freedom of speech and expression are being used to allow and support some of the most grotesque expressions I have ever seen. Where does it stop?

I also feel that there is a fundamental lack of protection of kids in our greater society. I think this factors into television, movies, items discussed in many schools and now toys. I can't tell you how many times I have had parents tell me that they get hoodwinked because they try as hard as they can to supervise what their kids are watching on television and they assume that at early times in the evening, they shouldn't have to worry. Well, guess what? They still have to worry on many channels. I happened to have a certain channel on, the other day, at a relatively early hour on Saturday night, and the material on it was so offensive I was just amazed. The show was targeted to young children and I asked myself what they are trying to teach our kids to become. If we are all honest with ourselves, life often imitates what is watched on television and movies and this show, in my opinion, was showing kids how to be completely disrespectful and foul because it is funny to do those things. I asked my husband if there was even an FCC anymore to decide about this or was it just, "up for grabs?" This was a regular cable station, not a pay station. It was also a station that I would not usually think would allow this, but it did and boy did it!

Even kid's movies nowadays are very much non-protective of kids and innocence. I was infuriated with Disney after watching the "Lion King." That movie was not only a political statement (which I don't think little kids need to be involved in,) but it was also a movie in which we saw a brother kill a brother and leave a child alone and terrified. Now, I know that in the old days we had "Bambi" which was realistic, and terrified me to the core of my being, but most of the cartoons then didn't present real life like they do now. They never went so far as to show family members killing each other. Kids have to grow up fast enough these days, they don't need to have a bunch of real life terror and nastiness shoved down their throats too!

The "Death Row Doll" is allegedly to be marketed and sold to kids age 13 and older. Wow, what a relief that they will be selling them to kids who are old enough to deal well with that! NOT! We have all too many examples of kids that age not dealing well with the desensitization of death in this country. Enough said!

I like toys that are educational, and positive, that encourage positive relationships and positive self-esteem. I'm not sure I see the purpose in anything else and try not to give the other things too much importance. Take the "high road." Train your own kids right and things like this won't have a market.

Dr. Sherri Singer is a Licensed Clinical Psychologist and Childhood Behavior Specialist. She regularly works in person with many readers of this column, helping them to significantly improve their kid's behavior and learning skills fast. Among many other services, she offers a "Parent Survival Training" class for parents. It lasts 3 weeks and has helped countless families to restore good behavior to their kids and peace and quiet to their homes! She is the author of, "Why Kids Misbehave" and "Raising Kids Who Don't Become Your Worst Nightmare."
